OCEANSIDE SAND TRAP

Nature-made sand traps surround the oceanside greens at Spyglass Hill and promise to make a challenging test for entrants in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Championship this weekend.

Bingmobiles Will Be At Tournament

Carmel Youth Center members will serve food from their Bingmobiles at the Crosby Tournament again this year. The green and white striped trailers were acquired through Bing Crosby's generosity and provide a means for the city's teen-agers to earn money to support their recreation center.

Sassoon Candidate For School Board

Steven Sassoon will run for re-election to the board of education of the Carmel Unified School District, he announced yesterday. Other trustees whose terms expire on June 30 are Mrs. Roxana Blanks and Dr. Hilton Bailek.

Mrs. Blanks states she is not running for re-election.

March 3 is the final date for candidates to file for the April 18 school trustee election. Forms may be obtained at the Monterey County Office of Education, 132 W. Market Street, Salinas.

NICKLAUS TWO UNDER PAR

In an exhibition game, Jack Nicklaus picks up his ball after two putts on Spyglass Hill's first green. This gave him a birdie and a good start toward two under par for the course which made him winner of a bet for charity with Bing Crosby.

Supervisors Approve River Inn Expansion

Monterey County supervisors authorized the Carmel River Inn request for 108 apartment or motel units on Tuesday. This expansion program has been fought by the Mission Fields property owners association.

There were some provisions in this authorization. These include requirements that a permanent barrier be erected at the entrance to Oliver Road; adequate flood protection be provided; and the property be connected to the Carmel Sanitary District.

The River Inn is owned by a syndicate whose members are Firmin A. Gryp and Myron E. Etienne, Jr., executives of Salinas Valley Savings and Loan, also Howard S. Bucquet and Henry R. Fonseca, who own the Jade Tree and Dolphin motels in Carmel.

WEATHER

60% chance for good weather this weekend. Wind to become southerly to 20 mph. Temperature highs near 65, lows to 35.

Planners To Review Past Control Of Motels And Business Buildings

Preparatory to planning commission work, at the request of the city council, on limitation of the size and bulk of buildings in the business zone, including motels, commissioners, yesterday afternoon, set a study session on February 1 at 7:30 p.m. Commissioner Fred Keeble volunteered, at this time, to prepare all past planning commission consideration on these controls for presentation later to the commission.

"It is imperative that we review past reports," he stated. Commissioners George Wilcox and Dorothea Roberts are members of the committee to work with Keeble in preparing review material. Following the review, Chairman Dorothy von Meier will set a special meeting for consideration and preparation of a report to the city council.

The council requested further action on commercial building and motel controls within 180 days at the request of Councilman Gunnar Norberg. He and Councilman Eben Whittlesey presented reports recommending further controls last summer and these were referred to the planning commission.

Other action by the commission yesterday was to approve a use permit for the First Church of Christ, Scientist, reading room on two lots in the residence zone on

'Any Wednesday' Tours To King City

Norman McPhee, director of the Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula, packed up a whole tax-exempt executive suite, in other words the set for "Any Wednesday" at the Circle Theatre, also the play's cast of one executive, his wife, his mistress and one uncommitted lover, and took them to King City last Thursday. Blowing behind them were a wild assortment of hundreds of balloons to enhance their one-night stand sponsored by the King City Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the cast of "Any Wednesday" came home delighted by their reception and brought back promises of support and attendance from King City theatre-goers.

The cast of "Hedda Gabler," previous presentation of the Community Theatre of Monterey Peninsula at the Circle Theatre, is refreshing the Ibsen play in preparation for a tour to San Joaquin Delta College in Stockton on February 21.

Inter-community interest and support are contributing factors in the survival of the theatre in Carmel. Director Norman McPhee says in respect to the Community Theatre tours to other cities.

NEW CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY DIRECTORS

Two new board members were welcomed at the first meeting of 1967 of the adoption services of Children's Home Society of the Monterey branch council. They are Captain David Chambers of the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School and Mrs. Robert Carlson Jr. of Aptos. Captain Chambers has already begun his work of providing information to the many Navy families in the area who are interested in adopting babies.

Chairman William Kennedy presided at the meeting of the organization, the only non-profit, privately supported state-approved adoption agency in California. A record number of babies, 197, was adopted in this area in 1966.

Mrs. Helen Robinson, case work supervisor, will be happy to help anyone interested in a membership or in information about adoptions. The phone number of the Monterey office on Pearl Street is 373-3299.

'HELLO, WE'RE HOME!'

Marcia Rider, leading lady in the Circle Theatre's current comedy, "Any Wednesday," waves a greeting with her hand that doesn't have a cast on a broken little finger as she returns as happy as the rest of the cast about the reception given a one-night performance in King City last week. The play continues at the Circle on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at 8:30 p.m. through February 11.

Milton Schlote

Funeral services for Milton George Schlote of Ribera Road, Carmel Meadows, were held Monday in Hayward, followed by burial in Mountain View Cemetery, Oakland. Mr. Schlote, a local resident for the past four and a half years, died in a Peninsula hospital January 13 after a brief illness.

Until recently, he was employed by the Monterey branch of American Automobile Association for which firm he had also worked in Hayward. A native of Baltimore, Maryland, he was associated with Shell Oil Company for 28 years prior to his retirement.

Surviving are his wife, Dorothy, and a son, Donald, of Carmel Meadows; and a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Barry of Baltimore, Maryland.

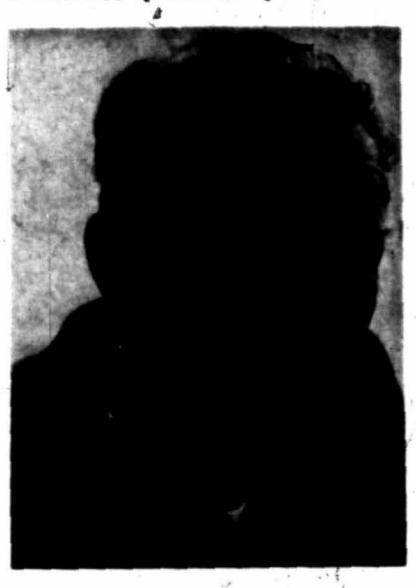
Community Theatre Reviews Activities

Brig. Gen. Francis Hill (USA ret.) of Monterey was elected president of the Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula on January 11. He succeeds Francis Heisler. Vice presidents of the theatre organization are Robert Heater, Mrs. Martin Glasser and Mrs. John Hicks.

Highlights of the past year were reviewed at the election meeting. These include a season ticket campaign conducted in the fall with Mrs. Robert E. Work as chairman; plans for a new women's committee; a full season of seven plays with weekend performances for 51 weeks.

Last year, too, a number of successful tours to high schools and junior colleges in the state were taken with "The Hollow Crown."

The Children's Theatre, under the direction of Mrs. Marcia Hovick, has just completed 24 performances sponsored by the Junior



Brig. Gen. Francis Hill

League and has played to over 7,000 primary school children on the Peninsula. Plans being made for the Spring, are to travel to high schools and junior high schools with "Aria da Capo."

Other members serving on the new Community Theatre board are Mrs. Marion Sanchez, treasurer, Richard Bird, Mrs. Church Chappell, Mrs. Sarah Ector, George Faul, Francis Heisler, Mrs. Marcia Hovick, Mrs. Sam Karas, Leonard Klene, Derek Lawford, Mrs. Bruce Meyer, Morgan Stock, Mrs. J. O. Tostevin, Dr. C. Winter Van Horn, Mrs. Alan Weinfied, Col. Mason Wright and Fritz Wurzmann.

During King Henry VIII's dissolution of English monasteries between 1527 and 1539, thousands of manuscripts were sold to shopkeepers to be used for wrapping packages.

LINES FROM

THE STUDIO

There's a delightful comedy at the Circle Theatre—"Any Wednesday." It ran a long time on Broadway with Sandy Dennis in the role played so enchantingly here by Marcia Rider. Not that we're touting it over our own production of "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum." (You think we're balmy or something?) But if you've seen "Forum" or can't get a reservation (like this weekend unless you hurry), "Any Wednesday" is the ticket. If it's not sold out too. After "Forum" closes at the Studio on the 29th, it's "Catch Me If You Can," a comedy-mystery with a diabolically ingenious ending. Who-dunit fans must see! Old admission prices in effect, new thrils and chills in store, any Friday, Saturday or Sunday.

PENINSULA GOLF NEWS

by Raymond "Sonny" Braun

The 26th Annual Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Championship began on the Monterey Peninsula today. The tournament will be played at Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill golf courses. There are 137 professionals and 137 amateurs paired. A three-way field rotates over Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill. On Sunday, the field will be cut to the low 50 teams, plus ties and professionals in the money, and they will play Pebble Beach.

There is a total of $104,500 in prize money with a first place professional purse of $14,400. In the Pro-Amateur division first place is worth $2,700. A daily double will be run on the first three days of the tournament with $1,000 going to the low professional in the Pro-Am and $500 to second place.

Don Massengale is the defending champion who survived an Arnold Palmer charge last year to win the first prize money of $11,000 by one stroke. Al Geiberger and Bill Martindale were only two strokes out. Massengale had rounds of 70-67-76-70 for a total of 284.

Chuck Courtney and Dr. John Moler won the Pro-Amateur division by defeating Billy Martindale and Bobby Roos in a sudden-death play-off.

Almost all of the big names in professional golf will be here to match their skills against three of the toughest golf courses in the country. Last year's top three leading money winners will be here, Bill Casper, Jack Nicklaus, and Arnold Palmer. Other top professionals include Al Geiberger, Doug Sanders, Gay Brewer and Don Massengale. Ken Venturi and Gary Player will be the only big names in golf not in the field.

Tony Lema, who was killed in an airplane accident last year, will be greatly missed by his many friends. Lema won the Crosby in 1964.

With the addition of Spyglass Hill to the Crosby this year, the scores should run a little higher, especially if they play from the back tees and corner a few of the pins on the greens. Spyglass is a very long exacting golf course with narrow fairways and big undulating greens. Strayed shots will be penalized severely and the premium will be put on putting.

Season tickets are $10 for all four days, $7 for Saturday and Sunday. Military men in uniform may purchase a season ticket for $3. Souvenirs programs are $1.

Mrs. Frank Fee took medalist honors in a medal play tournament held at Monterey Peninsula Country Club on the Shore golf course in the monthly Senior Women's tournament.

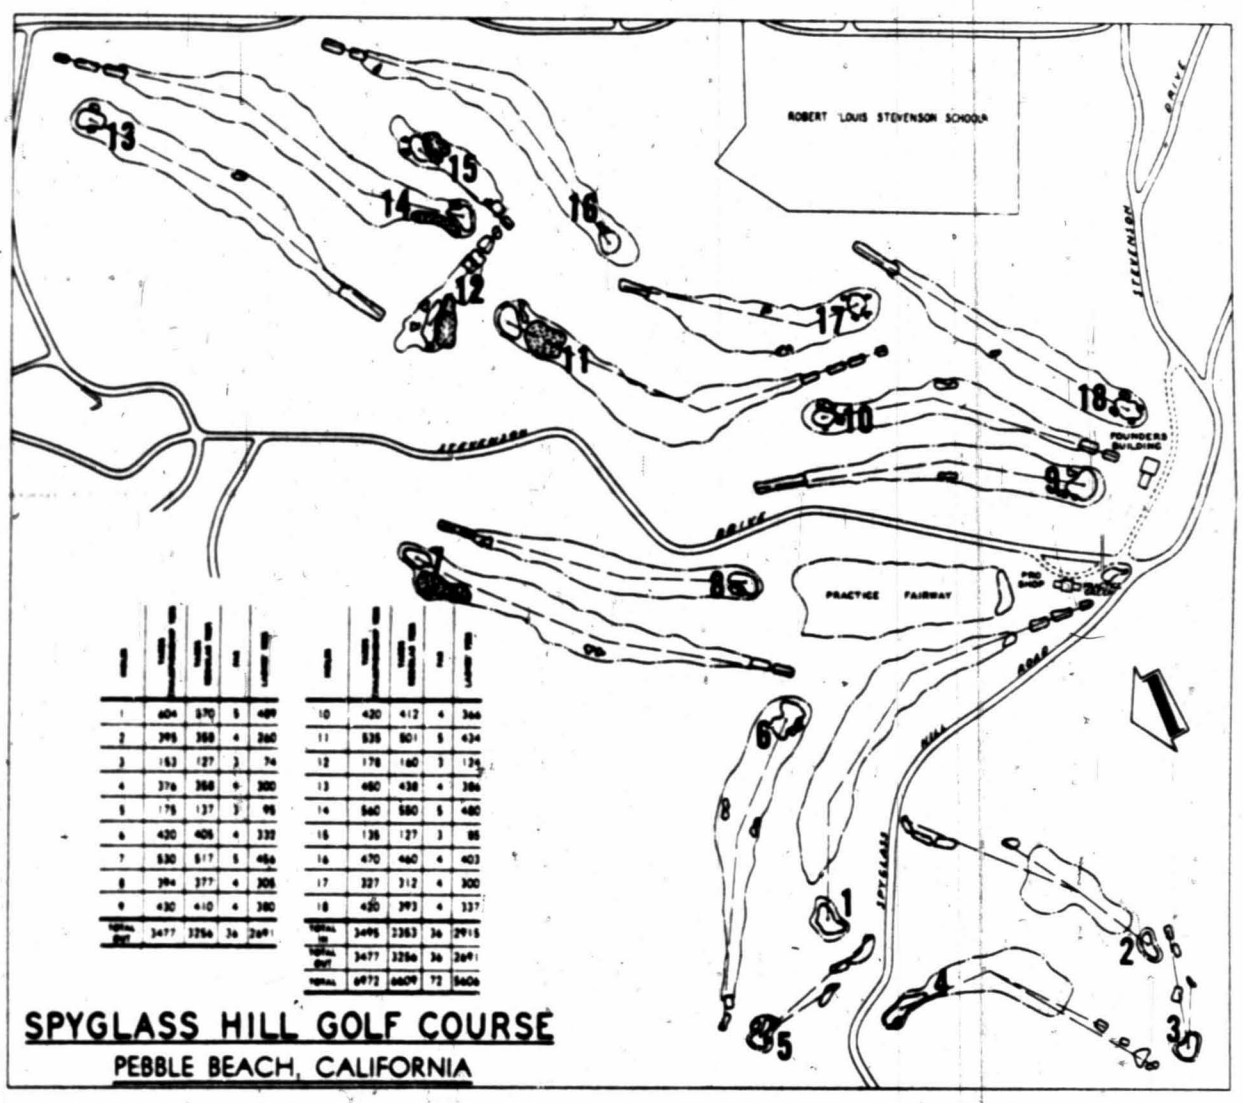
TEEING OFF with Bill O'Malley



SPYGLASS HILL CHALLENGES CROSBY PLAYERS

Along with the famous Pebble Beach and Cypress Point golf courses, the new Spyglass Hill course will challenge players in the 1967 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

Open for play in March of 1966, Spyglass is claimed by many players to be even tougher to score on than Pebble Beach. It is designated a 6,972 yard course but the large tees can vary the length from 5,600 yards to 7,035.

Among the holes that will surely become famous are the first five, each having greens that are islands surrounded by sand and thickets of chaparral which can gobble up golf balls. Speaking of losing golf balls, the 7th, 11th, 12th, 14th and 15th greens are guarded by miniature lakes which can do a very good job of swallowing one's Titleists, Maxflis and Dots.

Besides being a challenge, playing Spyglass Hill is a sight-seeing experience among tall pines, wildlife and the meeting of land with the ocean. Its breathtaking beauty hits one with an impact when one starts to approach the first green that almost makes one forget the hazards of the sand and brush. This is the beauty that is said to have inspired Robert Louis Stevenson to write "Treasure Island." Each of the holes were named after a circumstance or character in the book—Long John Silver, Billy Bones and Jim Hawkins.

The new course is operated by the Northern California Golf Association which is renting the beautiful acreage from Del Monte Properties Company. It is open for public play. All one has to do is pay the $10 green fee. A.J.C.

NATIVE PLANT SOCIETY MEETS TOMORROW

"California's Treasure House of Rare Plants" is the subject of an illustrated talk by Dr. G. Ledyard Stebbins to be given at a meeting of the Monterey Bay Chapter of the California Native Plant Society tomorrow evening at Carmel High School's Music Room at 8 p.m. Election of officers for the coming year will also take place at the meeting, to which the public is invited.

Dr. Stebbins is a botanist in the department of genetics at the University of California at Davis.

NEW MONTEREY PINES PRESIDENT

Carolyn Vogel, above left, retiring president of the Monterey Pines Golf Club, handed over her gavel to Mrs. Joseph Tiek last week during installation ceremonies at the Elks Club in Monterey. Other officers elected for the year are Mrs. Lee Shackford, vice president; Beth Petersen, secretary; Barbara Brown, treasurer.

Committee chairmen chosen to assist the new board are Mrs. Frank Gamberutti, tournaments; Mrs. George McGuire, P.W.G.A. representative; Mrs. James Harkless, handicap; Mrs. Mildred Ayres, social; Mrs. T. C. McCoy, rules; Mrs. Kenneth Hettrick, new memberships; and Mrs. Clifford Cook, publicity.

Carmel Visitor

One of last week's visitors to Carmel was Mrs. Anne Podien, Gesene who, with her husband, in 1929 built the Holiday Inn at Bayview and Martin Way. She was visiting Mrs. Daisy Bostick.

Gail Dowling Engaged

A June 10 wedding in Fresno is planned by Gail Dowling, daughter of Mr. Mrs. Patrick C. Dowling of Carmel, and John H. Givens of Madera and Fresno. The young couple's engagement was announced New Year's Day at a luncheon at the home of Gail's parents.

The future bride, who is teaching in a Santa Barbara elementary school, has directed the summer children's play at the Forest Theater for the Carmel Unified School District's recreation department for the past three years. She is a graduate of Santa Catalina School for Girls and Monterey Peninsula College, where she was student body secretary and state secretary of the California Junior College Student Government Association. She was also the recipient of a Delta Kappa Gamma scholarship and of the ASMPC service award. In June of last year, she was graduated cum laude from Fresno State College with a B. A. in speech and theatre. She is affiliated with Delta Gamma sorority.

Miss Dowling is the sister of Mrs. Jack Spencer of Boise, Idaho, and the niece of Monsignor James G. Dowling of Fresno.

Her fiance, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd B. Givens of Madera, received his B. A. degree in English from Fresno State College, where he was president of Theta Chi fraternity. He is currently studying for his master's degree in American literature at the same college.

He is the brother of Melinda and David Givens and the grandson of Mrs. Harvey W. Shuman of Madera.

FASHION SHOW

Mrs. Graeme Mackenzie adjusts the hat worn by Mrs. Russell McCallion, part of the golf outfit she will wear in the Champagne Fashion Show to be held at the Mark Thomas Inn tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. Other models will be Mrs. Christine Mohr, Mrs. Jean Dorsey, Mrs. Melva Tranchim and Mrs. Shari Wilson.

Disneyland Official Visiting

Houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lautzinger during the Crosby are Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Sayers of Newport Beach. Mr. Sayers has been associated with the late Walt Disney's enterprises for some 12 years, including the management of Disneyland park, and is now vice president in charge of lessee relations for the company's Florida development.

Shunning Festivities

Just as there are "shun-pike" travelers, so are there "shun-Crosby" residents in Carmel, among whom are Mr. and Mrs. W. E. van Loben Sels. They'll hole up with friends in Aptos for the duration of the annual tournament. Their home, however, will have its full quota of Crosby spectators when their son, Page, arrives from UC Berkeley with five fraternity brothers, their feminine guests and willing chaperones Dean and Mrs. Arleigh Williams.

Party For Former Residents

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bucquet have invited a number of close friends of former residents Curtis and Eleanor Mitchell to a cocktail party Saturday evening in honor of the couple, who will be here this weekend as guests of Dr. and Mrs. Dexter Whitcomb. After a period in Princeton, New Jersey, the Mitchells have moved back to the West Coast and are making their home in Orinda. Mr. Mitchell, once associated with the Monterey plant of National Automotive Fibres, is now with that firm's Oakland office. While here, Mrs. Mitchell was active in the formation of the local Junior League branch and was one of its presidents.

The Bucquets, like many residents, have out-of-town visitors during the current golfing activities. Their guests are Mr. and Mrs. Roderick White of Santa Barbara.

Best-Selling Author Here

In Carmel last week for a brief visit with old friends Jay and Ruth Allen was Mrs. Lester Tuchman of New York and Cos Cob, Connecticut, who is better known as Barbara W. Tuchman, author of the best-selling books "The Proud Tower" and the earlier "The Guns of August." She was en route from San Francisco, via Stanford, to Southern California where her husband, Dr. Tuchman, has joined her for a stay with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David Eisenberg, at the California Institute of Technology.

The Allens and the Tuchmans have been [illegible] some 30 years. Mrs. Tuchman, then Barbara Wertheim, and Mr. Allen, then a newspaper correspondent, met abroad and their common interest was the cause of Republican Spain which was beset by military rebellion aided and abetted by Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy.

Departing and Arriving

Mrs. Frank Thacker has mixed feelings at the moment about the activities of her sons, Fred and Christopher Carroll, both Carmel High School graduates. Chris was home on leave recently after graduating from training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego. Now finishing advanced training at Camp Pendleton, his first Marine Corps assignment will be Viet Nam.

Fred will be coming home from Labrador shortly, having completed his services with the U.S. Air Force there and at Vandenberg Air Force Base. He plans to resume his studies at San Mateo College, later attend a dental college in the East.

Two Elliott Sons in Army

On the day that Alex Elliott left to report for basic training with the Army at Fort Lewis, Washington, his brother, Army Specialist First Class Andrew J. Elliott, departed for Viet Nam as a medical specialist in Company D, 5th Special Forces Group, 1st Special Forces.

Both young men, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Elliott of Carmel, graduated from Carmel High School and attended Monterey Peninsula College. Andrew served in the U.S. Marine Corps for three years before enlisting in the Army in 1964. He was previously assigned to the 8th Special Forces Group at Fort Gulick, Canal Zone. Their brother, George, attends Carmel High School.

Fortuitous Trip

Mr. and Mrs. George Greer traveled to the East coast last December to visit Mrs. Greer's son and daughter. The trip, as it now turns out, was a fortuitous one — her son-in-law, Sergeant Dennis Wilczewski, has received orders to Stuttgart, Germany, where he will serve with the Special Services for three years. Sergeant Wilczewski, his wife, Virginia, and their small daughter, Pammie, are leaving their U.S. Marine base headquarters at Jacksonville, North Carolina, almost immediately.

A visit with Mrs. Greer's son, Captain Thomas A. Johnson, USAF, his wife Ruthanne and their youngsters, Joni and Tommy, near Hurlburt Field, Florida, completed the Greers' delightful holiday.

Captain Johnson was graduated last month from the Air University's Squadron Officer School, the Air Force's senior educational institution, at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama. He received his commission in 1958 upon completion of the ROTC program at De Pauw University, where he earned his B.A. degree in economics and was a member of Phi Kappa Psi. Prior to his selection for the Air University he served for a year in Viet Nam, later as an instructor at Hurlburt.

On Swimming Team

Mike Cook, a swimming team letter man through his graduation year of 1960 at Carmel High School, is swimming competitively again.

Ensign Cook is now a mathematics instructor at Great Lakes Naval Training Center near Chicago. He is a member of the center's swimming team and he and his teammates recently took the 240 yard medley relay event away from North Park College in 2:30.8.

THE FLYING McDONNELLS

In the above picture, Judge James M. McDonnell and his pretty wife, Mary, are standing in front of their new Cessna Skylane. Judge McDonnell retired from the municipal court bench in Sacramento on April 1. His home is now on Bayview and Martin Way on Carmel Point, overlooking the ocean. This is a home the McDonnells purchased five years ago when they were looking forward to retirement.

Judge and Mrs. McDonnell have three children. Tom, is a sophomore at Stanford-in-Austria. James Jr. is an alumni of Robert Louis Stevenson School who will graduate in June from Portland's Lewis and Clark College. Mary Ellen, graduated from San Francisco State with a master's degree in September and is now teaching in Oakland.

Judge and Mrs. McDonnell enjoy many things together. They are members of Monterey Peninsula Country Club where they both play golf. Mrs. McDonnell obtained her pilot's license about two months after her husband started flying in 1963. Both are very enthusiastic flyers and proficient, too. We certainly welcome these lovely people to our community.

Changing Scenes

"Cambridge was beautiful," reports Mrs. Nancy Lofton, who, with her daughter Melissa, flew East to spend Christmas in Massachusetts with Edward and Nancy Faridany, Mrs. Lofton's son-in-law and elder daughter, at their apartment close to the Harvard Yard. The New England elms "were leafless, but etched with a powdering of snow," she says. The Faridanys' home is a most convenient one, since Edward is doing graduate work at Harvard's school of business.

Before returning to Carmel, Mrs. Lofton visited friends and family members in the South—Charleston and McClellanville in South Carolina; and in North Carolina in Winston-Salem, where she grew up, and Beaufort; also Birmingham, Alabama. The constant cloudy skies over the Carolinas didn't bother her, she said, because the rains had made everything so lush and verdant.

Melissa, who returned early to resume studies at Santa Catalina School, brought with her from Massachusetts a new family addition: Sima, an irrepressible dalmatian puppy.

In Naval Training

Last summer, Jeffrey Porter and Robert Russell traveled together in Europe for three months. The two Carmel High School graduates are now seaman recruits, undergoing basic training at the Naval Training Center in San Diego.

Jeffrey reported for duty a little earlier than his friend and was entitled to a Christmas furlough which he spent here with his mother, Mrs. Beverly Porter. Robert, who attended Monterey Peninsula College, will complete basic early in February and will then be home for a two-week leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Russell.

AAUW Members Added

Among the new members or transfers who were welcomed to the Monterey Peninsula branch of the American Association of University Women before the close of 1966 were Mrs. Robert W. Selle of Carmel and Mrs. Kenneth H. (Ellen Jane) Down, mathematics instructor at Carmel High School.

Art News...

The trustees of the James D. Phelan Awards in Literature and Art opened the 32nd annual competition last week, offering prizes to painters who were born in California, from 20 through 40 years old.

Four awards of $1,000, $600, $400, and $200 are offered in a statewide competition, with an exhibition of selected paintings at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco during the month of April, and at the Villa Montalvo, formerly Senator Phelan's summer home in Saratoga, for the month of May.

Dr. Thomas W. Leavitt, director of the Santa Barbara Museum of Art, will be the juror who will select paintings for exhibition as well as for the awards.

Applications must be made on a special form, which can be obtained from the office of the Phelan Awards, 57 Post Street, Room 602, San Francisco, California 94104.

The closing date of the competition is March 15, 1967.

The January Show at the galleries of the Carmel Art Association on Dolores between Sixth and Fifth avenues includes a juried selection of members' work. The association is a non-profit group and maintains the oldest gallery in Carmel.

NEW CARMEL MUSEUM OF ART

The picture above is an architect's rendering of the interior of the new Carmel Museum of Art. It will occupy the former Wells Fargo Bank building on Dolores between Ocean and Seventh.

Up to now there has not been any serious work done to collect or exhibit, on a large scale, the works of pioneer Monterey Peninsula artists. Some of our local residents have given this considerable thought. They felt, because of the nature and uniqueness of the early art colony in Carmel, that a museum should be established to preserve and exhibit this aspect of American Art History. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Russell White pursued this project and hired Kent Seavey to be the curator. Seavey was curator of the California Historical Society in San Francisco and more recently registrar at the De Young Museum.

The Carmel Art Museum project was incorporated in June of 1966. After careful study of the area and its potential for such a limited endeavor, negotiations were begun with Wells Fargo Bank to purchase its former Dolores Street quarters. An offer was accepted and, hopefully, the refurbishing of the building will be completed for a Fourth of July opening.

The museum itself will maintain a permanent hanging collection of past artists who, in their time, made the Monterey Peninsula a nationally recognized art center. A small side gallery will hold changing exhibits interpreting specific aspects of these artists and their work. A research library also will be housed in the museum.

Membership will be available to all and will include meetings and lectures presented by authoritative speakers in the areas of California and American art history. Previews of exhibitions and numerous special events will be available to members plus all museum publications at a discount.

A one-man exhibition of contemporary Chinese paintings by Yeh-Jau Liu will be shown at the Laky Galleries on San Carlos Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues from January 21 to February 3. There will be an invitational preview of the show on Saturday evening.

Leon Amyx, distinguished artist and head of the art department at Hartnell College, Salinas, is showing a group of his oils and watercolors at the Dooley Gallery.

Amyx has long been known for his personal, interpretive style in transparent watercolor as well as in oil. His subjects range from completely abstract compositions to scenes from Rome, Venice and the Monterey Peninsula. His paintings have been shown in many galleries, including the Riverside Museum of Art, New York; the San Francisco Museum of Art; the De Young Museum, San Francisco; and in the Birmingham Museum, Alabama.

Amyx's paintings in the present show represent some of his latest works. A few paintings by Helen B. Dooley will also be seen in this exhibition, which will be shown through February 3.

Paintings and sculpture by California artists, working in both traditional and modern fields, will be displayed at the annual All-California Juried Art Exhibition. The exhibition will be a feature attraction of the 52nd National Orange Show March 9-19 in San Bernardino.

All work must be original and by an artist currently residing in California. Only one entry per artist may be submitted.

Cash awards have been earmarked for first place winners in five categories: traditional oil, modern oil, traditional water color, modern water color and sculpture. Medals and ribbons will be given to second, third place and honorable mention winners.

Brochures describing the exhibition and complete details of the display may be secured by writing the All-California Art Exhibition, National Orange Show, P. O. Box 29, San Bernardino, Calif.

New Parcel Post ZIP Code Law

Use of ZIP Code will make it easier for Carmel residents to mail packages Postmaster Fred Strong states.

On January 15, a new system for identifying parcel post zones went into effect as provided in legislation signed into law by President Lyndon B. Johnson on September 20, 1966. New rates became law on the same date by the same action.

This week persons who mailed packages have found both the ZIP Code of recipient and the sender must be identified on a package. If the ZIP codes are not written on a parcel, these must be looked up in the post office and placed on the package before it can be accepted for mailing.

By consulting a simple chart, which is available at all post offices, the zone can be readily identified because the first three numbers of the ZIP Code represent the sectional center. This replaces a method in which a directory often had to be consulted to locate the proper zone for each of the nation's 33,000 post offices.

Use of ZIP Code in the recipient's address will enable the sender or a mail clerk to quickly determine the proper zone, and thus the rate for the package. The zones will be based on the distance a parcel travels between the 552 sectional centers in the country.

The rate increases will average about 10 cents a parcel. Starting July 1, the law provides for a series of size and weight increases on packages mailed between first-class offices. Carmel is a first-class office. The size and weight increases will be in five annual steps, the last coming on July 1, 1971.

The new rates will range from 40 cents for a three-pound parcel destined for local delivery to 60 cents for the same parcel to zone 3 (150 to 300 miles) to $1.05 to zone 8 (over 1,800 miles). The new zoning method will also apply to air parcel post, catalogs and to publishers who pay zone rates on the advertising portion of their periodicals.

Strong noted that all parcels mailed between post offices within the Salinas sectional center will be charged at the first zone rate. There are 18 post offices within the Salinas sectional center.

The new rates are expected to provide an additional $74 million a year for the Post Office Department. The later size and weight increases will add another $32 million a year. The additional revenue is to help keep the department within 4 per cent of costs on parcel post as the law requires.

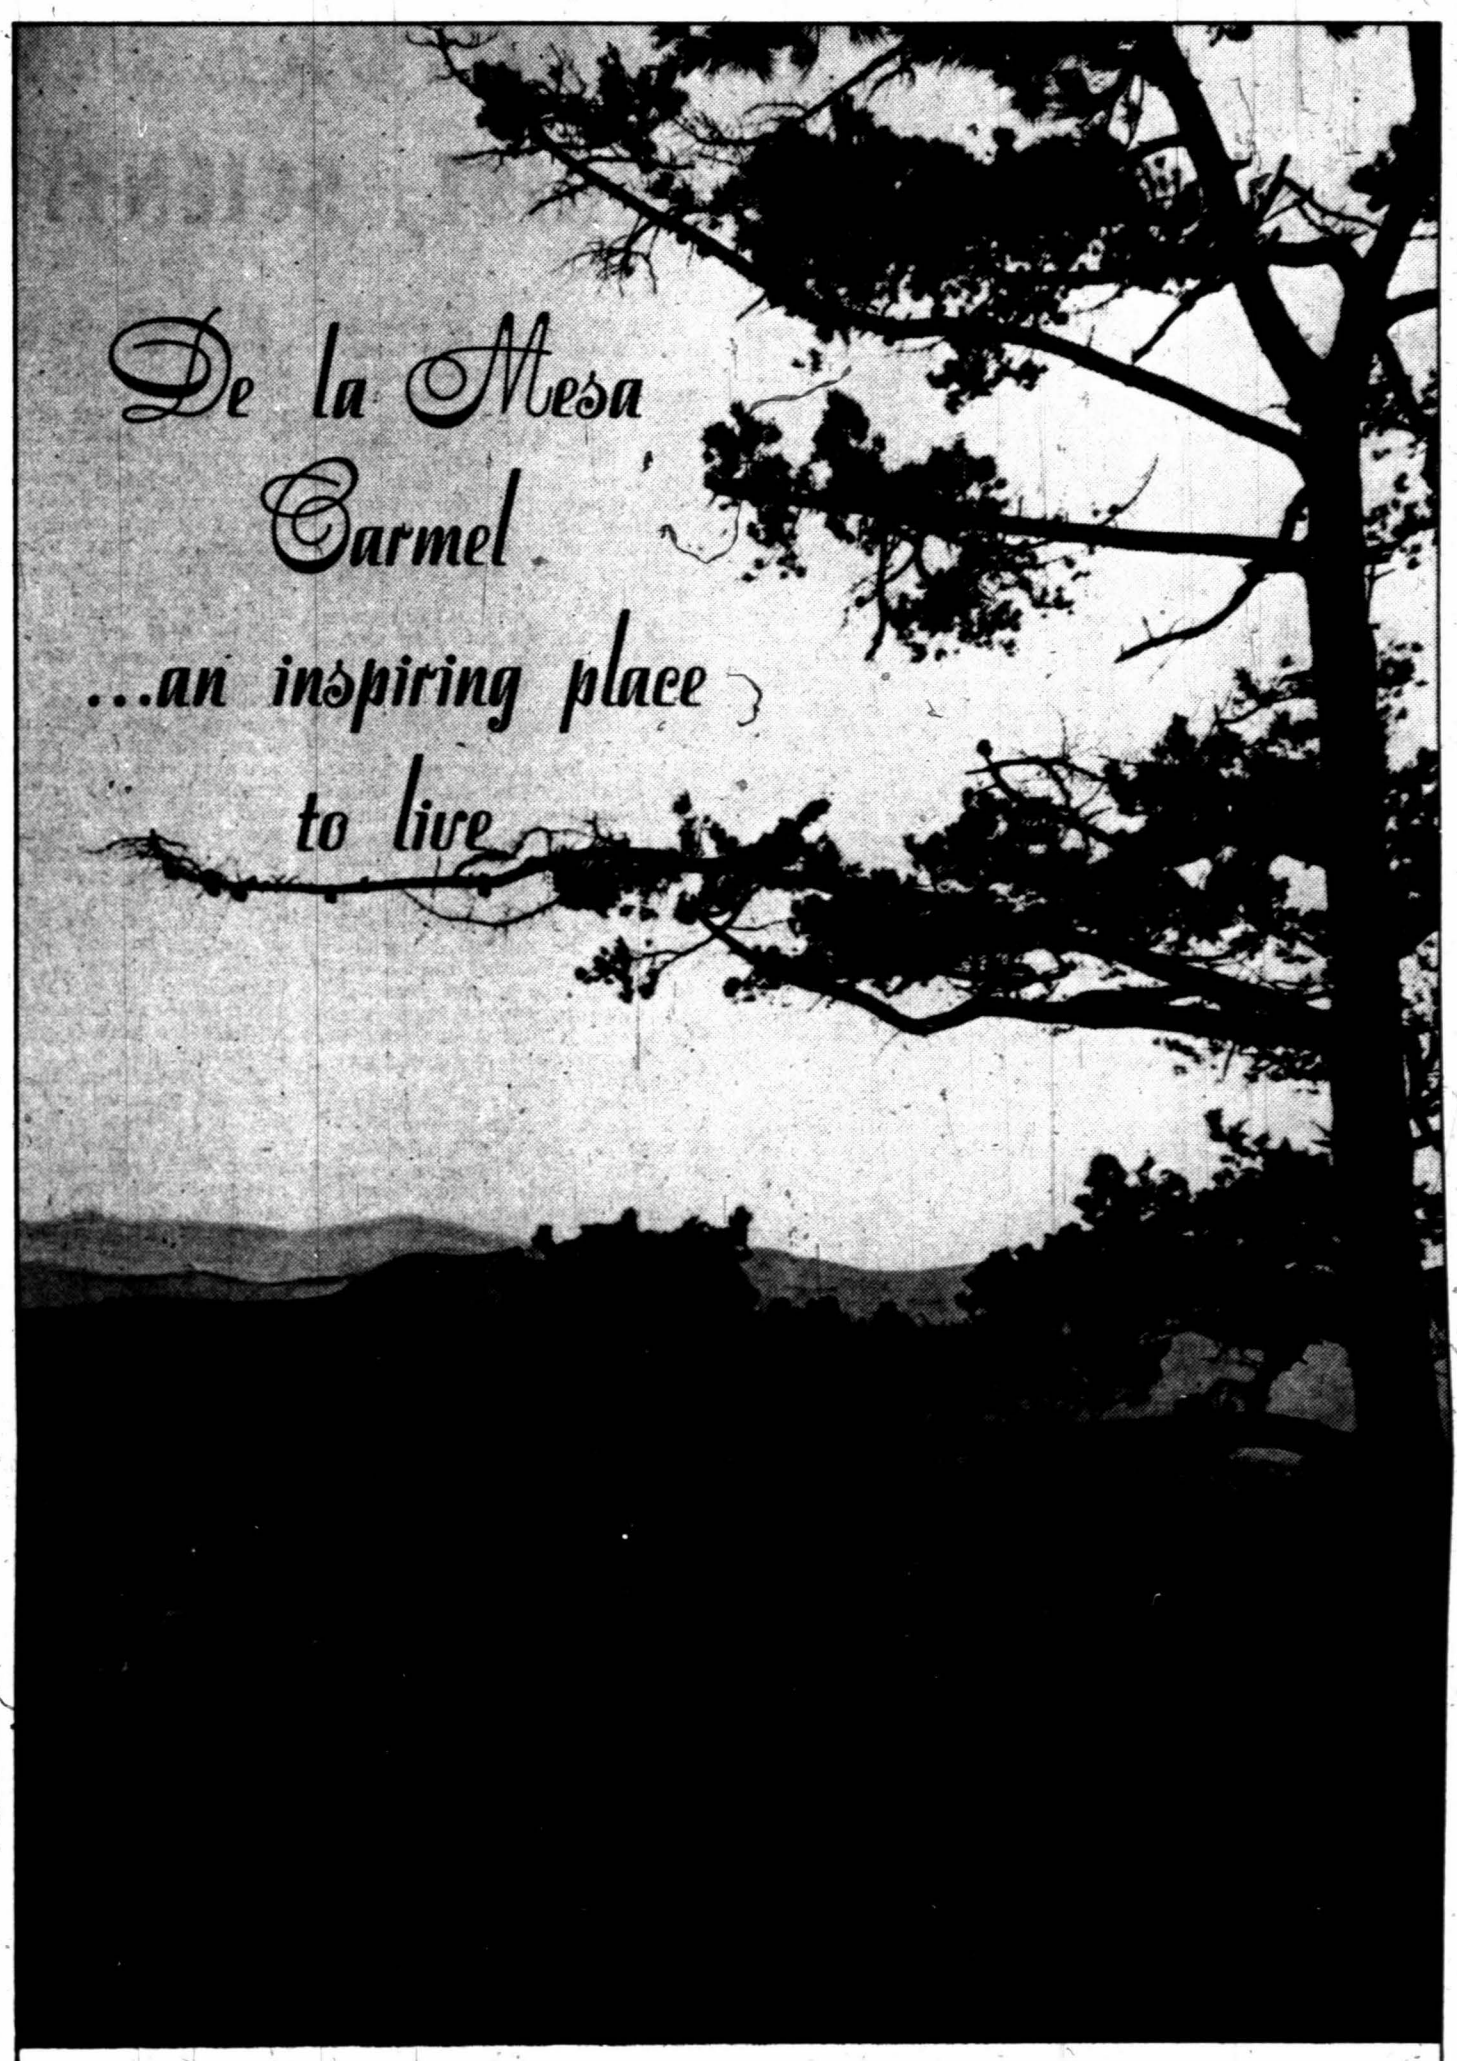
Carmel Realtors Endorse Override

The Carmel Board of Realtors has endorsed the proposed 37 cent override tax for the Carmel Unified School District.

Guest speaker at the board's regular monthly luncheon last week was Dr. Harris Taylor, superintendent of the Carmel Unified District, who presented a cost breakdown of district requirements for a projected five-year period. He said it was highly unlikely that additional state aid will be directed to the Carmel district and in order to maintain basic standards it is necessary that voters approve the override tax.

Keynote of the speech was that property owners should realize one of the reasons people come to the Carmel area is because of its high educational standards. Should these decline it could follow that property values would decline because of the lessened demand to live in the Carmel Unified School District.

Dr. Taylor also compared the school tax in the Carmel district which is $2.44 against Pacific Grove Unified District school tax which is $3.59 and the Monterey Peninsula Unified District which is $3.27.



There's a million dollars-plus buried 400 feet above the Carmel Valley Road under the new De la Mesa Adult Community which is rising there! This million dollars has been spent to bury utility lines, telephone lines, TV lines—every known harrassment of the human eye—all buried, underground, beneath beautiful, winding paved streets and the layout markers for 150 residences—four of them already complete, furnished, and ready for your personal inspection.

That's a lot of money. A million dollars to assure this inspiring site, its great natural beauties in perpetuity. We want you to see it. The road we've built to the top winds through an old arroyo, under evergreens, and bursts out on top to breathtaking views of mountains, vales, towns and even a spot or two of ocean.

The four completed residences, of different sizes, will tell you more about this first-class community—(the finest, we think, of its kind in the West) — than any amount of words. So this is just an invitation to come and see new De la Mesa Carmel for yourself, take home a beautiful brochure in color, and come to your own wise conclusions.

January 16, 1967 LECTURE delivered in

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, CARMEL

A Lecture on Christian Science
Entitled
You Have a Purpose
by

Josephine H. Carver, C. S. B. of Boston, Massachusetts

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts

The lecturer spoke substantially as follows:

During the early part of this century there was a newspaper woman in Boston who became increasingly aware that violent and continuing attacks were being made in the papers upon a woman prominent in the community.

As a reporter she wanted to investigate and see for herself. What sort of woman was it who was bringing forth such abuse? To her astonishment, instead of the self-seeking charlatan many papers pictured to the public, she found someone utterly different. She found a woman with great nobility of purpose.

The reporter was Sibyl Wilbur, then on The Boston Herald. Miss Wilbur found a woman not only dedicated to helping humanity but successfully showing those who were searching, and who could accept her discovery, how to be well, how to look at life without fear—above all, how to live a meaningful existence. She was actually explaining and demonstrating the spiritual power set forth in the Bible. She was doing healing work comparable to that done by Jesus and his disciples, and she was teaching others how the sick are healed. As many of you know, this woman was Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science.

Now Mrs. Eddy didn't at first intend to found a church. And she was most certainly not seeking fame. It wasn't her aim to be thought great. But after she had glimpsed the spiritual facts of being and had experienced their power, she wanted everyone to share the same understanding of pure Christianity and to have its benefits. And she recognized that a sense of the real meaning of Life is necessary to such understanding.

There probably isn't anyone here who at one time or another hasn't considered his reason for being. Many people have asked the question, "Why am I here?" "What is the meaning of my life?" There are even those who question, "Do I have any purpose at all?"

In one of his widely read books, Paul Tillich of the University of Chicago refers to this empty sense of being. He indicates that such a state accounts for a certain danger of our time—the unsatisfied outlook which he describes as "the anxiety of meaninglessness."

One of the surprises of this age of increased leisure and abundance is to find so many people with a sense of futility. This we encounter at a time when there are material comforts far beyond what our forefathers dreamed and when automation is increasingly taking toil out of human life. It is estimated that every man, woman, and child in the United States has on an average thirty-two machines working for each one of them every day. But although we have many machines, as yet we know very little about how to get along with our own inner selves or with one another. So it becomes more and more vital that we look into what life is all about, or what our purpose is in living and how it can be fulfilled.

Of course, we also have those other purposes, such as, How can I be well? Or, How can I make a success of my work? How can I be happy? Or, How can I find right companionship? Although these legitimate goals may be somewhat limited and personal, they have a right to be fulfilled. But they find their fulfillment more readily when the larger meaning of our lives is clarified.

Some people keep themselves busy in order to avoid thinking out their reason for being. Others have leisure thrust upon them and then start looking for a purpose. Not everyone is sure he has found something to live for. Yet no one of us wants to get into the place of just marking time.

Surely we're not given life for an insignificant reason, much like an ant who uses most of his energies for little more than to get around obstacles in his path. Surely we're alive and here because something much greater than ourselves is expressing its nature as our life and fulfilling its own purpose in all we really are or do.

But in order to see this we need to find out the nature of that something greater than ourselves. This is what Christ Jesus did and what Mrs. Eddy did also. This is what enabled them to heal the sick and change the characters and lives of men and women around them. This is what gave purpose and meaning to Jesus' life. This is what led Mrs. Eddy to find and fulfill her purpose to show humanity the freedom from affliction and the richness of opportunity that is possible for everyone. According to Christian Science that something greater than ourselves is primal cause. We term it God. We conceive of it as intelligent, eternal, infinite consciousness, or divine Mind. We think of it as both knowable and provable. It is what gives purpose and meaning to our lives.

Our first concern then in discussing the purpose of life and its fulfillment is a consideration of the nature of God as primal cause and how we can gain an understanding of this and put it into action.

God Is Primal Cause

The understanding that primal cause, or God, is infinite good is natural to everyone. We possess it intuitively. It's important to value this intuitive understanding no matter how small it may seem at the moment.

Christian Science nourishes this understanding and in so doing gives direction to living. Our reason for being is to understand and express the nature of cause as infinite good. Within this great spiritual purpose all right human purposes find their place and fulfillment.

There are many who question a common concept of God as a great personage or a magnified human being knowing both good and evil. But even these will often admit that there is a cause for the universe.

This cause has a great deal to do with the purpose of our lives. If the one cause or divine consciousness is eternal, it must be entirely good; if any evil were included there would be a destructive element in it and then cause would not be eternal. Christian Science starts from the recognition that God is the great First Cause of all things and that this eternal cause is altogether good in purpose.

This understanding directly affects us. For what we know of divine cause largely molds our experience. Many people have found this to be so. Every week and every month anyone can read in the Christian Science periodicals verified accounts of healings written by those who have found it to be true that God's purpose is good for all. And because He is supreme in power and has no rival nor competitor, He permits only good for His creation. This is a statement that can be subjected to proof.

We have spoken of God as divine cause. This is how Jesus knew Him. The master Christian's healing works were possible because he knew cause or Life to be Spirit, intelligent Spirit. When I accepted this truth I was instantly healed of ptomaine poisoning. One moment I was suffering and the next I was well and as strong as I had ever been. You see, I caught something of the fact that infinite Spirit wouldn't make its likeness out of matter, but out of its own substance. Because man in his real being is spiritual, man is always well. As I saw this, I was at once completely free.

The cause that is not only good in purpose but is also indestructible Spirit is the all-knowing consciousness or one divine Mind. This doesn't mean cause with a mind, but cause that is Mind itself, the all-wise and the all-seeing. This cause of creation is also the source of beauty in form and color, the source of perfection and inspiration, and so we call it Soul. As primal cause, it is the one Life, without beginning or ending. It fulfills its purpose but not through its opposite, inert and mindless matter.

It is the actuality of all things, or Truth, self-existent and self-expressed. Being not partially but entirely good, the cause of existence is ever-giving, ever-guiding divine Love that is inexhaustible, all-pervading.

To these Biblical terms for God Christian Science adds the synonym Principle in defining cause. Why? In part because of the great need for exactness in knowing the nature of God. The divine cause is understood as completely dependable, invariable, and purposeful. The primal cause isn't random in performance or capricious in activity, but orderly and intelligent. And so we know it as the living Principle of the universe, supplying all real life, life that is substantial and enduring but that is not in matter. Then where is it? Safe in infinite Mind or divine consciousness.

The Real Nature of Man and His Purpose

If the primal cause is Spirit, Mind, Principle, then the effect, or man, originates not in matter but in Spirit, in divine Mind not in mindlessness, in Principle not in physical personality. And you and I in our real being are that man or effect.

We call the effect of cause "man," but by this is not meant the biological entity that appears to human sight. If the divine cause or Spirit is good, then man, its effect, couldn't be physical, for physicality is subject to disorder and disintegration. But man is constituted by Spirit and so is spiritual, therefore indestructible.

There's nothing more satisfying than to understand the cause that is divine Mind itself; there's nothing more satisfying than to do this—to be man in the fullest sense. This means man as the complete representation of the perfect cause, man who is naturally intelligent, able, wise, endowed with every divine quality, including health and strength. Such a state is not a far-fetched dream, but just as progressively possible now as when it was exemplified by the power and freedom Jesus exhibited.

This possibility is not for another man sometime in the future; it's a divinely natural state possible for you now. Of what value is it for you to know this? The value is that it shows you what you really are, where you came from, and where you're going. And it enables you to demonstrate in your present experience that good is your source and your destination.

Evil Has No Cause

When we learn that the origin of our true being is Spirit, Mind, Principle, we cannot be subjected to discord and disease. In the degree that we discern these to be illusions, we can gain superiority over them.

The well-known position of Christian Science that evil is unreal is not lightly taken. It follows logically from the proposition that the one divine cause or Life is real, infinite, all-powerful. However, the human mind is so used to thinking in terms of good mixed with evil that it doesn't easily change to the basis of one wholly good cause and the impossibility of that cause producing evil. But since the real cause or God is infinite and the only creator, there's no room for a second cause.

Now of course an intelligent inquirer might well hesitate to accept this much, were it not that beneficial results follow from the premise that evil is unreal. Jesus said: "Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils" (Matt. 10:8). And Christian Scientists have made noteworthy progress in doing just that. They consider that healing or adjustment of all sorts of wrong conditions is a part of Christianity because of this command of Jesus. Christian Science is therefore a religion of action or works.

The proposition that God is real and good, as well as infinite, and that therefore His opposite, evil, is unreal, needs to be understood. Evil cannot be seen as unreal when observed from its own basis. But from the standpoint of the infinity of good, evil's mythical nature is provable. The intent of such a proposition is to show men how to best fulfill right human purposes, how to prevent injustices, how to stop being imposed upon, how to overcome evil rather than be overcome by it.

How Mrs. Eddy Found Her Purpose

Mrs. Eddy understood the divine cause to be infinite ever-active good. Her willingness to follow through and see the implication of this fact led her to realize that evil is not inevitable and is no part of God's creation. This gave divine direction and superb fulfillment to her life. It is what can give meaning and fulfillment to our lives.

From childhood the conviction had continued to grow with Mrs. Eddy that God's love is given to all, not just to some. It was plain to her that, as the Bible says, "He maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust" (Matt. 5:45). To take this stand meant pioneering into religious concepts that were even less acceptable then than they are now. But she was dauntless in her search for a more practical Christianity. Her willingness to explore new spiritual ground is reminiscent of Abraham who is described in the epistle to the Hebrews as going out, "not knowing whither he went" (Hebr. 11: 8).

Mrs. Eddy proved for herself that the power exercised by the early Christians is just as much present today as it ever was. The first instance that brought her growing understanding of God into effective focus was in 1866. At the point of death she so deeply and vividly discerned the reality of Life that she was instantly healed. From that time on she was dedicated to understanding the power that had restored her health.

She healed cancer, blindness, insanity, and other disorders where hope had been given up. The healings came about because she understood the supremacy of the divine cause of existence; she knew with certainty infinite good couldn't include any evil.

Armed with the sacred healing ability she was finding, Mrs. Eddy proved in increasing measure the infinite goodness of God or Spirit as no one had done since the time of Jesus. Her insistence upon the character of God as completely good and so unable to include evil in His purpose for His own, is at the very core of the Science she discovered. And she clearly saw that man is inseparable from God, one with divine Mind.

In writing of Jesus, Mrs. Eddy asks: "If there is no reality in evil, why did the Messiah come to the world, and from what evils was it his purpose to save humankind?" (Unity of Good, p. 59). Her answer reads in part: "Jesus came to rescue men from these very illusions to which he seemed to conform: from the illusion which calls sin real, and man a sinner, needing a Saviour; the illusion which calls sickness real, and man an invalid, needing a physician; the illusion that death is as real as Life. From such thoughts—mortal inventions, one and all—Christ Jesus came to save men, through ever-present and eternal good." We can see it was then the Messiah's purpose to save humankind from the illusion that there is a cause producing evil, a cause other than eternal good. There is no cause but God, everlasting good.

The Understanding of Christ

The true idea of God is the Christ. It was this true idea that enabled Jesus to demonstrate God's presence. In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mrs. Eddy says of Jesus: "His purpose in healing was not alone to restore health, but to demonstrate his divine Principle" (p. 51). The power that he showed forth was the Christ, and there is but one Christ. Yet it isn't presumptuous to say that this power wasn't exclusively his. It didn't belong to a single human being. Jesus himself said: "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father" (John 14:12).

The penetrating Truth is the Christ that Jesus demonstrated. He was inseparable from this Christ, the true idea of all things. Jesus' mighty works of restoration to normal human conditions, of needed food or tax money, indicated that a power beyond anything human was at hand. The understanding of this power enabled him to fulfill right human purposes whether it was to supply food where it was needed or to restore lost faculties of sight and hearing.

One morning in a class in a Christian Science Sunday School, several references were made to Jesus and the Christ. A boy new to the class and to Christian Science finally asked another pupil what he meant by making a difference between Jesus and the Christ. He replied, "Oh, that's easy. Jesus was the human man; Christ does all the work." Now of course this boy's reply doesn't give a complete explanation of the Christ. But it does point out the activity of the Christ-power that Jesus wielded. Referring to the eternal, ever-present Christ-power, Jesus said, "Before Abraham was, I am" (John 8:58). Jesus discerned the Christ, or Truth, shining through every human situation, and it is this Christ that does the healing work.

Here's an incident that illustrates what I mean by the eternal presence and power of the Christ. A friend of mine had tuberculosis for some years. She had kindly and skillful medical help of the best sort in the large city where she lived. She also went to a warmer climate in an effort to regain her health. Finally, after ten years of invalidism, she found Christian Science and began to study its teachings. In response to what she learned, a great transformation of her life began to take place. By the power of the Christ, the Truth, she was promptly restored to health and vigor. This woman felt she had to find out what it was that had done so much for her. This became her life purpose—to understand God.

Jesus' healings have never been duplicated by the human mind nor explained by the human mind. It's the same today. The healings that come about through an understanding of

The Complete Gardener

. . . a regular diet of information having to do with plants

Many phases of gardening fit nicely into the time-worn adage "a stitch in time" . . . This is particularly true of pest control. Early sprayings of insects and weeds will nip them before they become a real menace. Spray those seedling weeds now and you'll save hours of hoeing later. Always look over the problem before jumping in for the kill. Consider the weeds to be controlled and their location in reference to desirable plants. Always do your spraying on a calm day. Read everything on the label before using the product.

For general broad-leaf control, in or out of lawn areas, the standard formula is known as 2, 4-D. This will take care of dandelion and the majority of other plant pests. Occasionally you'll run into a stubborn weed that refuses to respond to the 2, 4-D treatment. Then it's time to get something that contains a new ingredient, known as Banvel D. This is now available in most garden stores under a brand name. Do not use this, or any form of 2, 4-D on dichondra lawns.

BOTHERING THE BUGS

Then there are the insects, snails and slugs, sitting tight until your garden starts to grow. Insects, like weeds, are specialized. An insecticide which controls a sucking bug will not always affect one that chews. A crawling insect will often survive the spray that's fatal to one that flies. The most effective single ingredient we've found is diazinon (Spectracide), which is used extensively in agriculture. You will notice that the directions call for one-third as much material to make a spray solution. In other words, a teaspoonful per gallon of water rather than a tablespoonful.

Slugs and snails are in hiding, too, but will move about during mild weather. This is the time to have bait distributed where they will find it. There are many good snail baits on the shelves and you may have a favorite. But watch for signs of immunity when you use the same product over a period of years. We believe in switching brands each time we bait . . . pellets one week and meal the next. And let's not overlook liquid applications, especially later in the season when the eggs have hatched. Young snails and slugs often spend several weeks above ground, in plants, and surface baiting would fail to get them until much damage had been done.

DORMANT SPRAYING

The dormant spraying of fruit trees requires a little special treatment. Here we're seeking to control certain diseases, as well as insects, which might be wintering over. Waste no time in getting at this job because you'll want to spray again when the leaf buds start to swell (about mid-February). The mixture to use is one teaspoonful of diazinon, 3 tablespoons of bluestone (copper sulphate) and 6 ounces of spray oil. Add enough water to make one gallon of spray. You will find fruit tree sprays and dormant sprays, labelled as such, on the retail shelves. If you'd rather not be bothered with mixing your own, give them a try.

MOISTURE AND FROST

This is also the month to check moisture levels in your soil. At this writing we can't foresee the rainfall picture in this area, but we know that winter drought can be harmful to most plants. Frost damage, too, can take its toll of tender plants and the "stitch in time" in this case would be protection by covering and the use of 0-10-10. To be fully effective this fertilizer should first be applied in the fall of the year and each month thereafter until all danger of frost has passed.

THE VEGETABLE GARDEN

If you've already prepared the soil, and it's not too wet, this is the week to pick up your packets of early vegetable seeds. The selection is great: lettuce, beets, radishes, turnips, carrots, cabbage, spinach, peas, parsley, onions, broccoli, Brussels sprouts. In the perennial line-up you can set out rhubarb, asparagus, and artichoke roots. And it's time to put in strawberry and bushberries.

Some vegetables, when planted now, can be harvested in time to be followed by a warm weather crop in the same soil. So if you're cramped for space, plan to put in corn, beans and tomatoes after you've eaten the radishes, lettuce, spinach and turnips. Root crops, in particular, do much better when superphospate is mixed into the soil before planting.

PROPAGATING PLANTS

The third week in January is also a prime period for making cuttings from perennials. Once you've propagated plants in this way, you're hooked. And it's quite simple. A nursery flat will do as the container . . . or a large flower pot. The rooting medium should drain well, yet afford a uniform distribution of air and moisture. An inexpensive material is now available in this area and marketed in several sizes as "fortified potting soil." This should be packed solidly in the flat, or pot, and watered.

Let's say you're going to propagate chrysanthemums. Clip off the top 3 or 4 inches of new growth from an old plant. Strip off all except 2 or 3 leaves at the tip. Dip the cut end in hormone powder. Use a slat to make furrows in the soil. Or, if a pot is the container, holes can be punched. The cuttings can be crowded, using all of the space. Firm the soil around each cutting as you plant. Place the container in partial shade. Check the soil regularly for moisture and water when needed. If leaves turn yellow, pull out and discard those cuttings. The others will make roots in a few weeks and will be ready to transplant. Any good garden soil, into which 0-10-10 has been mixed, will grow healthy mums. Give them full sun and feed them once a month with hoof and horn meal.

Next week, the dormant-season bloomers.

African Wildlife Film To Benefit County Arts Council

The showing of a color film on the wildlife of East Africa on February 3 at the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall will be a benefit for the Arts Coordinating Council of Monterey County.

The wildlife was photographed by Brooks Clement while he was on safari with Emile Norman through Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda during 1965.

The safari was undertaken by Norman, a Big Sur artist, solely for the purpose of viewing African wildlife and flora in their natural state. While Norman sketched and observed, Clements photographed with still and motion picture cameras to provide a record of Norman's observations for future reference.

So many of the motion picture scenes were of such outstanding quality that Norman decided to release them, through Clement, as a film to show to civic groups. The film includes some unusual sequences of lions, giraffes, hippopotami, and rarely photographed herds of East African elephants, also many excellent bird pictures.

This will be the first public presentation of the 110-minute film which will be shown at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Admission will be $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for students and members of the armed services. Tickets are available at the Carmel Bach Festival office in Sunset Center, or by mail from the Arts Coordinating Council, P. O. Box 2344, Carmel.

Changes In Right Of Way For Boats

Changes to the Rules of the Road will prohibit small boat operators from maintaining a right of way, in narrow channels, over large less maneuverable ships that cannot be stopped in a short distance, reports the Coast Guard.

Beginning February 3, motorboats under 65 feet in length operating in narrow channels shall not interfere with the passage of large deep-draft vessels which can safely navigate only inside such channels, according to the new law.

Sail boats usually have the right of way over power craft. However, the new law adds that sail boats do not have the right to hinder the larger less maneuverable vessels either.

The new provisions apply in all waters under Inland, Great Lakes and Western Rivers Rules of the Road. These same changes were incorporated into International Rules September 1, 1965.

Western Rivers Rules also specify that small boats shall not hamper a vessel with tow ascending or descending a river.

SWEDISH FILM AT MPC

A screening of "One Summer of Happiness," an adult Swedish film, will terminate the fall film series at Monterey Peninsula College January 27.

A lyrical drama of young love, sensitively made and beautifully photographed in the Swedish countryside, "One Summer" will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in the MPC Music Hall.

Tickets, priced at 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for MPC student body members, are available only by mail or at the music hall door on the evening of the performance.

GIFTS TO MPC

Several gifts from local citizens were accepted with thanks by the Monterey Peninsula College board of trustees at its January 11 meeting.

Four shares of E. I. duPont de-Nemours & Co. common stock were accepted from James D. Hague of Pebble Beach and $163.30 from Dr. William Forestelle of Seaside to pay for die costs for pins for students who have completed the medical assiting program.

A film, "Dead Birds," was donated by Charles McCulloch of Carmel.

REPORTS FROM RLS

By Chandler Meloy

SEMINARS AND DISCUSSIONS

Seminars, discussions and speakers fill this week at Stevenson as students and faculty aim their sights at a rugged week of finals starting next Monday.

Headmaster Robert U. Ricklefs, who is also president of the California Association of Independent Schools, led a delegation of ten to the Northern California regional meeting of the CAIS at Menlo College last Saturday. In an all-day session, leaders from independent schools reviewed problems, compared ideas and challenged their minds on the future of education.

"A most profitable discussion" according to English Department Chairman Charles Dillaway. "Valuable" was the comment of Ed Brown, dean of men. "We need more discussions" said math department head Admiral Harold Pullen. Assistant Headmaster Frank Keith observed that such meetings give educators time to examine new concepts of teaching.

Also joining in the discussions, and the favorable comments, were Mrs. Margaret Jones (librarian), Mrs. Margaret Moody (English), Mr. John Hayes (history) and for the language department, Mrs. Marie Vargas, who teaches Spanish.

Both in discussion seminars like these and in various faculty meetings at RLS, the goal has been to expose teachers to new ideas and concepts as the school aims to the future.

Seminar for Students

In keeping with the tradition of exposing students to ideas and giving them an opportunity to question concepts, a program of lecture-discussions was started last Thursday for Roman Catholic boys interested in gaining more information about their faith.

With the backing of Carmel Mission Basilica and the unique direction of Sister Francis Loretto, a series of one-hour programs is being held each Thursday on "The Church in the 20th Century" as it relates to Vatican Two. Starting at 7 p.m., the programs alternate between the mission and the school. Tonight, one of the programs will be held at RLS on the general topic of "God Speaks To Man" and is open to Catholics and guests. Student co-chairmen of the "Mission Club" are Pat Wu and Ed Jagels who have organized a group of scholars to attend the lecture series.

The response was so favorable after the first meeting, and the requests were so strong, that the series will be extended after the first six topics have been completed.

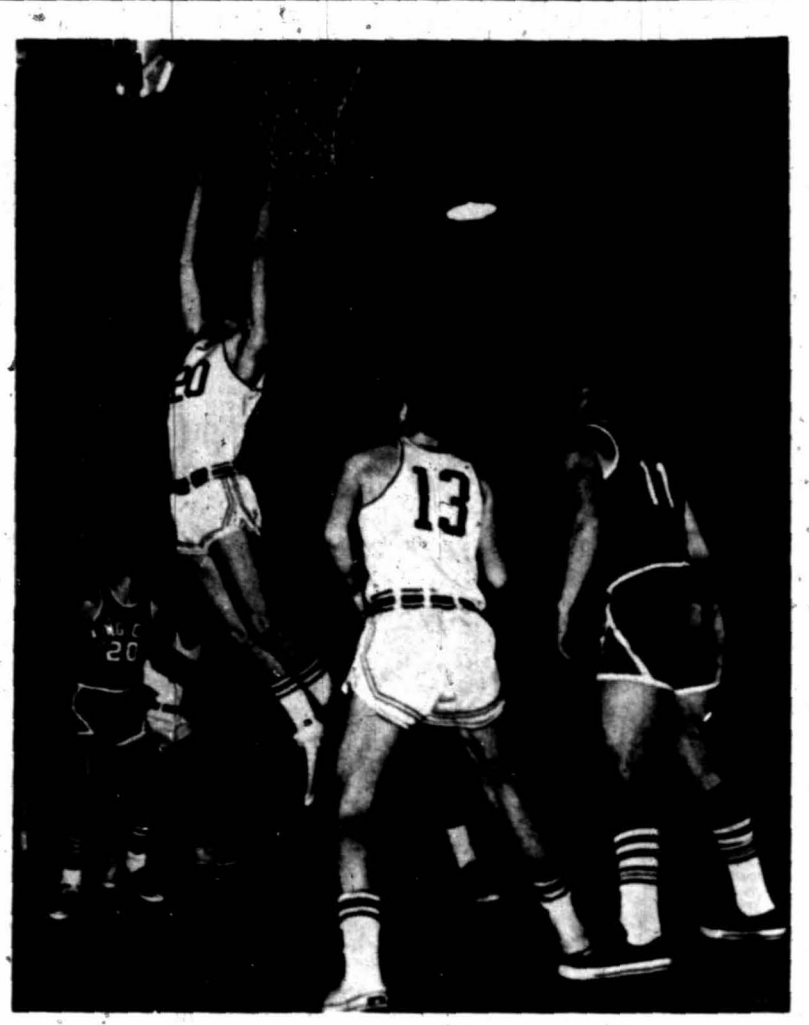
Sister Francis Loretto, the instructor and leader of the series, is a former principal of Notre Dame High in San Francisco and was an associate professor of English at the Catholic Seishin University in Japan. She is a dynamic teacher and an overflow crowd is expected at tonight's discussion.

Other Speakers

Dr. William Wenner, local surgeon, and a leader in work of the Alcoholism Council, spoke on "Social and Alcoholic Drinking" at the Vesper Service last Sunday. Student response was most favorable to the objective approach that Dr. Wenner took. His son, Henry, also Mrs. Wenner, joined the students for Sunday dinner before the service. The students at Stevenson have been most active in the work of the local Alcoholism Council which is supported by the Community Chest.

Individual Speech Tournament

And to end the week on a note of speaking, the Winston Churchill Forensic Club will send a 30-man delegation to the P.F.L. speech tournament at Soquel this Saturday. Led by such outstanding speakers as Don Stilwell, Larry Kuechler, Joe Arsenio, Bill Atkins, Smith Dungan and newcomers Lonnie Foy and Jim Russell, the team is expected to give a good account of itself. There is only one more regular tournament after this one before the state semi-finals in April.



CARMEL DEFEATS KING CITY

Terry Mosolf (No. 20) is seen above with the ball during the Carmel Varsity basketball game against King City last Friday night. On the alert for results of his teammate's action is Gary Newton (No. 13). Behind King City's No. 20 is Carmel's Brian McEldowney (No. 10). The final score was Carmel, 63; King City, 50. High scorer for Carmel with 20 points was Doug Adams. Rich Oleson followed with 14 points. Third place scorer was Mosolf with 12 points. McEldowney contributed 8 points, Newton, 7; and Parsons, 2. King City won the Junior Varsity game 52-41; also the closely contested 29-28 freshman game. Next games in the Mission Trails Athletic League will be played tomorrow night when Live Oak High comes to Carmel.

Auditions Set For 1967 Bach Festival

On January 28, Director Sandor Salgo will be in Carmel to audition for the 1967 Carmel Bach Festival. Previous chorus members, also new singers with a good background in choral singing, are invited to phone the festival office (624-3437) for an appointment.

Auditions will be held in the music room of Carmel High School starting at 10.30 a.m. Instrumentalists are also invited to audition.

Rehearsals for the chorus will be held every Tuesday night at 7:30 starting February 14.

Kenneth Ahrens, organist and choir-master for the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Monterey, will conduct the chorus as Salgo's assistant.

Principal choral works programmed are "The Passion According to St. John" and Handel's oratorio, "Saul."

Support Override

The executive committee of the Carmel Business Association has issued a statement asking all members to support the 37 cent override tax on which residents of the Carmel Unified School District will vote on March 7. A decision to support the override was made by the executive committee on January 5 following a detailed presentation by Dr. Harris Taylor, superintendent of the Carmel district.

A RICHER LIFE

Every temptation that is resisted, every noble aspiration that is repressed, every bitter word that is withheld, adds its little item to the impetus of the great movement which is bearing humanity onward toward a richer life and higher character. —Fiske divine Mind cannot be accounted for humanly. They can be accounted for through the study of Christian Science in which it is plain that the cause that is divine Love provides nothing unlike Love for its creation. And it is through the study of these teachings and through prayer and practice that we come to understand the good that is divine as the one and only cause. As we take these steps we begin more and more to experience God's power.

The Study of Truth

In order to find meaning for our lives we seek to know and understand the cause of existence. This takes study and thought. It is generally agreed that study and thought are necessary for the mastery of chemistry or mathematics or one of the arts. This is even more so when it comes to spiritual ideas.

A subject that is worthy of serious consideration should have an exact statement of its propositions and conclusions. It should have a textbook. Christian Science does. Its textbook is "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mrs. Eddy.

The study of this book brings to light the golden thread of spiritual meaning in the Bible. It dissolves the contradictions between literal and spiritual meanings that often puzzle sincere students of the Bible. In the light of these books anyone can develop and extend his own innate ability to understand his cause, to fulfill his purpose, to find the meaning of his life. The study of Science and Health has been quietly helping and healing people ever since it was first published in 1875. From the time of its discovery Christian Science has healed. This is the main reason why many have been drawn to its teachings. It's as Jesus said: "Ye shall know them by their fruits" (Matt. 7:16). The last chapter of Science and Health consists entirely of 100 pages of recorded healings that took place through simply studying this book.

The very first healing in the chapter is of a serious form of rheumatic trouble that was beginning to ossify the joints. When I was a child I knew this woman. It was years after that healing and she was leading an active useful life, unrestricted in every way.

Another person writes in this same chapter of the help Christian Science has been to her and then says: "I saw that I must get the right understanding of God!" (Science and Health, p. 669.) She goes on to say that these words from Psalms came to her: "Be still, and know that I am God" (Ps. 46:10). Then she writes: " . . . deep into my hungering thought sank the infinite meaning of that 'I.' All self-conceit, egotism, selfishness, everything that constitutes the mortal 'I,' sank abashed out of sight." She concludes: "From that hour I have had an intelligent consciousness of the ever-presence of an infinite God who is only good."

Yes, our purpose is immense and our destiny includes all that can be called permanently good. Our purpose involves knowing ourselves as we really are. It is to be the full understanding and expression of the great First Cause, the source of all real good. If Life is understood to be God or universal good, and our purpose an understanding of this Life, we will begin to see its purpose fulfilled in our own increasingly satisfying experience.

Prayer That Heals

In Christian Science study and prayer often go hand in hand. What is prayer? It isn't begging and pleading in the hope that a changeable and far-off supreme being will do something. No. Prayer is that activity of thought that acknowledges and appreciates the perfect cause or divine Mind and its work. Its work or man has been made right, constituted right, and isn't susceptible to harm or destruction.

Prayer is not stereotyped. True prayer is never stale, but new every day. Prayer can be thought of in terms of getting at the truth. It means seeing through to the truth of a situation.

How do you do this? By knowing what is true in the sight of God, the all-loving Father. What does God see? Can He, being infinite, see anything He does not create? Can eternality conceive of mortality? Can spirituality see physicality? Can Love ever behold hate? The divine cause of existence always sees its expression, man, in a state of perfection. Its power and ability to sustain its creation are endless and always present. The one cause has made all that is real and made it right. It has no opposite.

What is the object of prayer? To understand God, rather than to get something. Prayer affirms the truth, or what God knows, loves the truth, values the truth. This is the active understanding that fulfills right human purposes.

But prayer is not only knowing what God knows. Prayer also demands watchful thinking or discrimination. Whatever is unlike the nature of God needs to be refuted as unnecessary because unreal; it is unknown to Him. If you are as discriminating about your thoughts as you would be in choosing a new coat—if you will allow yourself to entertain in thought only what is in accord with infinite Mind and its good purpose—if you will do this for just one day or even one hour, you will find it makes a difference in your experience. Right purposes and aims are forwarded by this discriminating prayer or spiritually scientific knowing.

Practice Leads to Dominion

There is this difference between a novice at engineering or astronomy or some other branch of human learning and a novice in the Science or exact understanding of Christianity—in this Science anyone does better by beginning at once to practice it. Even a child often does this. The power of divine Love knows no favorites. It is never withdrawn from anyone. As we acknowledge this power, live as though it is in operation, as it is, we find it fulfilling its nature in our experience.

In one of Jesus' parables are these words: "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world" (Matt. 25: 34). Anyone can accept this kingdom, the reign of divine consciousness.

We inherit this kingdom or dominion as spiritual understanding is put into action or into practice. By this is meant that we can insist upon the true nature of God and His altogether good effect and do so, if necessary, in the face of contrary physical evidence. This is how you and I can find out about ourselves, or get at the truth about ourselves; and this opens the way to fulfillment, to better health, to more successful work, to happiness and right companionship.

In her book "Miscellaneous Writings" Mrs. Eddy says, "Self-renunciation of all that constitutes a so-called material man, and the acknowledgment and achievement of his spiritual identity as the child of God, is Science that opens the very flood-gates of heaven" (p. 185). On the same page she adds: "The spiritualization of our sense of man opens the gates of paradise that the so-called material senses would close, and reveals man infinitely blessed, upright, pure, and free."

This triumphant understanding unveils the man you really are, not someday, but now. It means that we can really do something about the troubles and imperfections of our human existence. We're apt to clutch these imperfections to ourselves as personal failures, but there's a way of separating ourselves from them. This includes a willingness to disconnect oneself from all that is mortal and fallible. This way involves persistent prayer and living that is in accord with it. Dropping the mortal for the immortal sense of existence opens those floodgates of heaven. This is practicing Christian Science. As we let go of mortal measurements of ourselves and others, we experience more of what is divinely true of man, what he really is—not one who is looking for a purpose or meaning for life, but one who is himself the fulfillment of divine purpose. Walk through the gates and be what you are!

Practice Overcomes Fear

The practice of Christian Science isn't a form of escapism. It doesn't advocate ignoring any wrong or evil, little or worldwide. To those who are searching for the right goal or incentive it simply presents the proposition that evil is overcome by considering it not as an overwhelming or inevitable something, but as nothing or nonexistent in the sight of God. Though this proposition is contrary to the viewpoint that sees life as animated matter, examination compels one to see that the results are genuine.

It's not necessary to fear disease or dis-ease. It can be routed and obliterated by the thorough understanding that the cause or intelligence of the universe is good in its purpose and intent and that it makes the only real conditions for man. Should we then be frightened of disease or any threat? Certainly not. Everything real is favorable to us. As we acquaint ourselves with the divine cause of existence, we see how to reject what is unlike this cause. This can be done as it is understood that the real power of the universe is entirely good. Then a better sense of life appears now and here. The omnipotent Mind that is cause cares for His creation.

The fact is that a good cause could only make its creation like itself, right in every respect. If creation is right and the effect of a good cause, it couldn't be made out of matter. What we see as matter is impermanent, always appearing to create and then to destroy.

As we keep close to the purpose of understanding God, as we acknowledge the divine Mind that is unchanging Love, we know that our real life cannot be harmed. We find we can face up to frightening circumstances or conditions with the certainty, not of will power or physical courage, but of Spirit. Then this physical environment looks less formidable.

In an appeal for funds recently sent out by an organization interested in the study and alleviation of children's diseases, there was this statement: "There is still so much more to learn about these dread diseases." In contrast, Christian Science says that permanent help is gained through the correct and thorough understanding of real cause or divine Life. To study diseased matter might be likened to studying mistakes in mathematics in order to learn mathematics. As we see it, the understanding of what is true about divine cause, substance, and law, is the most powerful remedy. Thoughtful study of the things of Spirit, true prayer, and living in accord with it, change our viewpoint and experience.

When fear of the unknown and of the future gives place to understanding and confidence in God's good purpose and power, the "anxiety of meaninglessness" or emptiness, as well as the many other anxieties, no longer hamper and haunt one. Everyone can find progressively that negation or evil doesn't belong to real life, that strife and disease are not natural. Then instead of being afraid of evil and trying to find out where it comes from, we occupy ourselves in proving the supremacy and ever-presence of the eternally good cause.

The Healing Effect

Some time ago a friend of mine who is a Christian Scientist began to wonder whether or not he was fulfilling his purpose. He was working on an important account with his employer, the owner of the firm. Their relationship had deteriorated seriously. Both were dealing with the same client and the employee's ideas were the more acceptable. The jealousy on the part of the owner was so noticeable in the office that other employees were saying that my friend would either have to leave the firm or "break" under the kind of treatment he was getting.

About that time he became seriously ill and called a Christian Science practitioner to help him. Of course, he also studied and prayed to the best of his ability. It was seen that divine Mind never fails to fulfill its purpose. Also, that man is the outcome of divine Mind. This means man is idea rather than an outgrowth of matter. It was realized that the dissension in his business relationship was not an actual cause, even though that's how it appeared. Since there is just one real cause, what was claiming to be a cause of disease couldn't actually exist. The cause that is God is all the real cause there is. And this cause is altogether good and it doesn't send anything harmful. It was seen too that real substance is Spirit and couldn't be contaminated in any way.

Lastly, it became plain that disease is not law but absence of law, lawlessness. That's why it's not imperative, inevitable. The one real law is the ever-present law of divine Love. Cause, substance, and law are all favorable to man and never fatal.

As a result of this illness there had been much swelling and distortion. All this soon vanished completely; my friend became normal in appearance and condition and he quickly went back to work. He found his employer's attitude altered in a way that could only be described as a complete about-face.

Now, where did the disease go? Nowhere. It simply couldn't be found when cause, substance, and law were seen as eternally good. You see, my friend had a firm confidence in the good that is divine. This trust was based, not on blind faith, but on the understanding that the purpose of divine Life and Love is invariably good. His consistency in putting into practice what he knew was strengthened by his study and prayer, or what we call knowing the truth.

The Discovery of True Purpose

Christian Scientists know that the good in their experience is simply evidence of the divine cause that provides abundantly for all. As Paul writes: "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him" (I Cor. 2:9). And among many deeply provocative ideas presented in the first chapter of Science and Health is this one in the form of a question: "Shall we plead for more at the open fount, which is pouring forth more than we accept?" (Science and Health, p. 2.)

Our purpose is found in God's purpose for us. In the light of Christian Science, everyone has the capacity to discover God's purpose, to find what Jesus called the kingdom of God within. As the Discoverer of Christian Science writes: "It is the purpose of divine Love to resurrect the understanding, and the kingdom of God, the reign of harmony already within us" (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 154).

Does life really have a purpose for us far beyond and greater than ourselves? Yes, it has. But if we think of life as personal, physical, and restricted, based on destructible matter, we may well wonder, Is there something bigger? If, however, we see Life as God or endless good and dedicate ourselves to gaining an understanding of His good purpose, we shall find that this purpose includes the fulfillment or coming into our experience of all forms of good. We shall steadily find this purpose fulfilled in us and even as us. It will become the meaning of our lives. In fact, we are the essential, the indispensable fulfillment of Life's eternal purpose to bestow all good. On whom? On you and me. On everyone.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The Christian Science Lesson-Sermon on "Truth" next Sunday takes drastic issue with the so-called standards of the "new" morality which are eroding the foundations of our society today.

The Lesson brings out the dangers of the "house built on sand."

Scriptural readings include this verse from Psalms (15:1,2) "Lord who shall abide in thy tabernacle? Who shall stand in thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart."

Correlative passages from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy read: "Moral conditions will be found always harmonious and health-giving.—The teachers of schools and the readers in churches should be selected with as direct reference to their morals as to their learning on their correct reading." (125:5-6; 235:7-10)

RADIO PROGRAM

The subject, "Learning from Adversity" will be heard this Sunday over station KGO at 7:30 a.m. and station KDON at 8:45 a.m. on the Christian Science radio series "The Bible Speaks to You." An inspiring dialogue will tell how many have turned their deepest troubles into triumphs.

Still Openings For Reading Dynamics Courses In Carmel

Peninsula residents will have an opportunity to increase their reading efficiency this month when Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institute classes start in Carmel on January 25 and 28.

The average person reads about 250 to 400 words per minute. By tripling his rate—a guaranteed result of the Evelyn Wood course—the student reads between 750 and 1,200 words per minute. Most graduates in Northern California, however, read well over 2,000 words per minute and with very much increased comprehension.

Reading Dynamics is a discovery, not an invention. Evelyn Wood, a school teacher from Utah, was working on her master's degree when her discovery began in 1945. She submitted a term paper to Dr. C. Lowell Lees, her professor at the University of Utah, and watched him read the 80 pages at a tremendous rate, also mark the paper without missing a detail. His untrained speed, 6,000 words per minute, compared to the average college graduate's 350. Yet, he could not explain how he did it. During a two-year search, Mrs. Wood found 50 other people who could read at from 1,500 to 6,000 words per minute. She analyzed the principles they were using, taught herself, and developed a system for teaching others. It took 12 years before the system was fully developed, tested, and proven.

In 1959, Mrs. Wood arrived in Washington, D.C., to show people how to read faster than was believed possible. So remarkeble were the results achieved by her first students that the story of Evelyn Wood and her "reading revolution" received nationwide publicity. Articles appeared in Time, Newsweek, Business Week, Esquire, Grit, The Christian Science Monitor and hundreds of local newspapers, reporting to the nation that a new, better way to read indeed had been developed. Graduates of Mrs. Wood's course appeared on network TV: the Art Linkletter Show, the Gary Moore Show, the Tonight Show. Each graduate demonstrated ability to read at tremendous speeds with excellent comprehension.

Over 150,000 persons across the nation use the Evelyn Wood method in their daily reading, including senators, judges, college presidents, plumbers, and housewives. The course is extremely popular on college campuses, where students have plenty of opportunity to use their new skill almost immediately.

There are still a few spaces left in each of the Carmel classes. Interested persons should telephone Mrs. Joyce Rutty (373-1328) for further information.

Italian Decor For 'Night In Venice'

Another in the series of popular International Nights will be presented by The Mark Thomas Inn on Monday. This is to be an extravaganza titled "A Night in Venice."

Aperitivo will be served in "Piazza San Marco" at 6:30 p.m. and dinner in the "Trattoria Marco Tommaso" at 7:30. Dinner, movies and entertainment will all be "Italian style."

Chef Hillebrand has planned an authentic menu and Robert Smith has been commissioned to create special decor which will transform the dining area to represent a scene in Venice.

Manager Graeme Mackenzie and his staff are working long hours to see that the spirit and atmosphere of "Venezia, the Queen of the Adriatic" will prevail in the January 23 event.

Assistance toward that goal has come from many interested persons, including Dr. Giulio De Petra of the Defense Language Institute, Dr. Luigi Chilleri of the Italian State Tourist Office in San Francisco, the staffs of the Alitalia, TWA and Pan American airlines.

Art Association Elects Officers

Robert Davey was chosen to head the Carmel Art Association for another year at the association's meeting Tuesday night. Elected to serve with him were Reginald Machado, Stephen Hennessy and Jane Buffington, first, second and third vice presidents, respectively; Sophie Harpe, recording secretary; Jane Buffington, corresponding secretary; and Ed Ward, treasurer.

The board of directors for the ensuing year includes Machado, Hennessy and Mrs. Buffington; also, Doris Winchell Baker, Patricia Cunningham, Ardoth Terrill Hughes, Keith Lindberg and Jessie Macgregor.

PARTY PLANS . . .

By Phyllis Jervey

Pebble Beach is renowned for entertaining throughout the world. Now, with an expected 50,000 visitors coming for the Crosby golf classic, hospitality needs must be streamlined.

Take the Beach Club, for instance, noted for leisurely lunching. An innovation here to provide speedy service for players and spectators is an assembly-line buffet. Overlooking the 17th green and temporary TV towers, what more enviable spot in which to pause and refresh during the tournament can be found than this new curving Beach Club bar.

Let's carry to our homes this expedient and efficient way to entertain. Golfing guests will appreciate quick but delicious food. One way to provide such fare is to plan dishes that can be prepared in advance and reheated at whim.

We have chosen curries as a combination of the two above PARTY PLANS essentials. A curry has definite advantage for the hostess. It can and should be made a day before serving. Composed of several dishes served at the same time it is a perfect buffet offering.

For a streamlined golfers' special serve a speedy curry.

Crosby Chicken Curry with Condiments

Three 2-lb. chickens, cut up; 1 cup peanut or sesame or vegetable oil; 1 cup, each, finely chopped celery and onion; 2 tbsps. curry powder; 4 apples, pared and chopped; salt, cracked pepper and cayenne to taste; steamed white rice; assorted condiments.

Saute chicken in oil for 10 minutes or until brown. Remove chicken and keep hot. Add celery and onion to oil remaining in skillet and saute 5 minutes. Add other ingredients, including chicken, cover and simmer 30 minutes. Cook rice separately and at serving mix lightly with curried chicken. Condiments are alongside in individual dishes with spoons. The curry is kept at right temperatures in an electric serving dish and should be replenished from an extra supply as golfers have sturdy appetities. Amount given serves 6-8.

This type of service is excellent for on the spot extended entertaining, that is when friends or family bring along others unexpectedly. Here is another version of potluck partying.

Curry in a Hurry
(Serves 12)

Two chickens, 4 lbs. each, cut up; ½ tsp. powdered ginger; ½ tsp. dried tarragon; 1 cup sweet gherkins, sliced thinly; salt, white pepper; shortening; cup flour; 1 garlic clove; 2 tbsps curry powder; sherry or dry white wine; 1 small can crushed pineapple; chicken broth; chopped fresh or freshened dehydrated mint; border of fluffy white rice. Condiments of your choice.

Shake cut up chicken in brown paper bag containing flour, tarragon, salt, pepper, powdered ginger and curry powder until each piece is well coated. Do no more than three pieces at a time. Brown floured chicken with crushed garlic quickly in hot shortening, using large heavy skillet. Add gherkins and pineapple, including juice. Add chicken broth (canned or made from bouillon cubes) until it comes within one-fourth of top of skillet. Cover tightly, simmer one hour; turn chicken pieces once or twice. Add sherry or white wine. Serve very hot on big round chop platter with a border of steaming rice; keep hot on electric warmer.

Curry Condiments

For condiments, use whatever you can assemble, such as seedless raisins, plumped in white wine, green seedless grapes; grated fresh, dehydrated or thawed frozen coconut; fried bacon bits; sliced banana rings soaked in lemon or lime juice; guava jelly; pineapple chunks; mandarin orange and grapefruit sections; toasted nuts or blanched sliced almonds.

Dessert is unnecessary with such a beguiling assortment. Tall glasses of cold cider or beer are a fine accompaniment and fortune cookies wouldn't be out of place. (The above curry recipe is from Phyllis Jervey's durable cookbook "Rice & Spice" found at the Wells Book Shop and l'Entrepot on Ocean Avenue.)

Champion Curried Casserole
(Serves 8)

Four cups cut up roasted meat or poultry; 3 cups evaporated milk; 2 tbsps. cornstarch; 1 No. 303 can applesauce; 2 tbsps. curry powder mixed into smooth paste with water; 1 grated onion; 2 tsps. lemon juice; 1 garlic clove, put through press; 2 tbsps. crystallized ginger; condiments; cooked white rice.

Cut roasted meat, such as veal, lamb, turkey or chicken into good-sized bites. Double milk with watter. Add diluted milk, slowly, to cornstarch until mixture is smooth. Put into top of double boiler and add applesauce, onion, lemon juice, garlic, ginger and curry paste. Simmer and season to taste. Dilute with sherry or apple juice if too thick. Add cornstarch if not thick enough.

Remember that a curry sauce thickens if permitted to "rest" for 24 hours in the refrigerator before putting into casserole with meat and rice and reheating in medium oven.

The best thing about this all-in-one curry is that it is made well in advance, kept refrigerated and then popped into the oven at the drop of a golf ball. Golfers dropping in and out will never be served short.

More Condiments

Arrange colorful condiments in separate lacquer bowls on a revolving tray next to casserole kept piping hot on electric server. Chopped mixed nuts, minced bell pepper, slivered canned pimientos, riced hard cooked eggs, mango chutney, shredded coconut; crisply fried bacon cubes, French-fried onion rings (these come canned), kippered herring or anchovies, lemon and lime quarters make excellent selections.

(The Curried Casserole is from Phyllis Jervey's "A World of Parties" found at the two Carmel book shops already mentioned.)

YMCA Directors' Annual Meeting

The board of directors of the Monterey Peninsula Young Men's Christian Association has issued invitations to the second annual meeting of corporate members and friends of the organization to be held at the San Carlos Hotel, Monterey, on January 26. The dinner meeting takes place at 7 p.m. in the Pacific Room.

TWO MAJOR REASONS TO PURCHASE TAX-FREE MUNICIPAL BONDS NOW:

1. Capture Near-Thirty-Year-Record Yields

With near-thirty-year-record yields available, it is a good time to buy municipal bonds and capture the tax-free interest income for the life of the bond whether or not interest rates return to more normal levels. Moreover, municipal bonds rank high in safety and nearly all are readily marketable.

2. Enjoy the Benefits of Tax-Free Income

Look closely at the chart below of selected income levels. To demonstrate to you the benefit of tax exemption, find the income-tax level that most nearly relates to yours. Then observe the various examples of tax-free yields from municipal bonds and the corresponding taxable yields required to match them.

As you can see, the advantages of "take-home" return from municipal bonds can be considerable. For example a tax-free yield of 4.00% to 4.50% requires a taxable equivalent yield of from 5.88% to 11.25% —yet currently high-grade corporate bonds are yielding only from 5.50% to 5.65% taxable. And Standard & Poor's 500 common stocks are currently yielding under 4.00% taxable.

	Taxable Income in Thousands
Single Return	$10 to 12	$16 to 18	$22 to 26	$44 to 50
Joint Return	$20 to 24	$32 to 36	$44 to 52	$88 to 100
% Tax Bracket	32%	42%	50%	60%
Tax-Free Yields	Taxable Equivalent Yields
4.00%	5.88%	6.90%	8.00%	10.00%
4.25	6.25	7.33	8.50	10.63
4.50	6.62	7.76	9.00	11.25

Now is the time you can take advantage of record yields and the benefits of tax-free income. Send for a free copy of our "Investment Opportunities for Tax-Free Income," and an offering circular on Tax-Free Municipal Bonds. For your copies, visit any Dean Witter & Co. office. What's Going on Here?

by B. ROWE

CARMEL FOUNDATION
Town House

Wednesday Program—on Jan. 25 colored slides of the Loire Valley will be shown by Major Edith Childers of Pacific Grove. The program is titled "Chateau Country of France." Time, 1.30 p.m. and again at 3 p.m.

Oils and Water Colors by Mrs. Anne Carlson are on exhibit at Town House during the month of January.

HACIENDA CARMEL

The recreation activities board chairman of Hacienda Carmel, Mrs. Elizabeth Heath, called for the first meeting of the year on January 5 to plan and consider future events. During the meeting it was announced that Helen Oehler, aided by Donna Davis and Virginia Williams, will be in charge of art displays in Casa Central. Mrs. Oehler said paintings only will be used and that their coloring in relation to room decor will be considered second only to their artistic quality. All paintings to be hung in Casa Central will be the work of Hacienda Carmel residents.

It was also announced that Mrs. Oehler will conduct a class in art for Hacienda Carmel residents and that Helen Smith will be in charge of ceramics instruction with special emphasis on enamel on copper at the outset.

An art show is being planned for April in Casa Fiesta. At present it is expected that awards will be limited to class ribbons with no cash awards contemplated.

A delightful one-man show of Helen Oehler's works is on display in Casa Fiesta as part of a year-around program featuring the work of talented residents of Hacienda Carmel.

At the invitation of Mrs. Elizabeth Heath, chairman of activities, Ginnie Drew will present, on February 9, a color slide report on her professional ladies' exchange visit to U.S.S.R. in late 1966. The presentation will take place at 8 p.m. in Casa Fiesta. Approximately 50 slides, selected from more than 500 photos made during Mrs. Drew's tour, will be shown to the accompaniment of appropriate "on-the-scene" comments.

Those dining in the deOro Room at Hacienda Carmel during the holidays were delighted with the gay decorations provided by the decorating committee and by the colorful aprons and novel menus provided by the dining room committee. Mrs. Cloy Sutcliffe and Mrs. Dottie Ketman spent many hours "over the sewing machines" to make sure that color would be "the order of the day" in the dining room.

Hal Wright, publicity chairman for the recreation activities committee, reported all the above items.

CANTERBURY WOODS

All the month of January, oils and water colors of Mrs. Helen B. Dooley of the Dooley Gallery in Carmel will be shown. Mrs. Dooley has painted and exhibited her work for over 20 years in this area.

She has an impressive background and has shown her work in the Palace of the Legion of Honor, San Francisco; the National Academy in New York; Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia; the De Young Museum in San Francisco; The Riverside Museum; the San Francisco Museum of Art; and Oakland Art Museum.

She has had many one-man shows in the Southwestern part of the United States including Arizona and New Mexico, also across the border in Mexico.

She is listed in Who's Who in American Art; Who's Who, American Women; and Index of American Scholars.

The exhibit is open to the public.

On January 10, members of the Writers Group of Canterbury Woods met in the Blue Room at 2 p.m. This marked their 53rd meeting, according to Mrs. Grace Lillian Paca, moderator. The very first meeting of this group was held two years ago and brought out five people. Last week there were 14 members present. Reports of their first effort as a group produced an anthology — Canterbury Chapbook, which is being very well received by the public, according to the publishers.

PINPOINT PROFILES
Maude Meagher

Boston born Maude Meagher, traveller, journalist, short story writer and author of such books as "Fantastic Traveler" and "White Jade," has enjoyed a most active and exciting life—and is still enjoying it. For, you see, she has that particular quality known as zest for living.

It was her father who loved and often quoted the poet Browning. Frequently he read to his children, thus inspiring them to read and enjoy this beloved English poet. A phrase of one special poem Maude recalls "The best is yet to be— The last of Life for which the first was made."

Maude went abroad first as leading woman for a repertory company which was to play old Broadway productions for the Allied Forces on the Rhine. In 1920, with headquarters in London, she was on the staff of the San Francisco Chronicle. While in London she read about and became acquainted with many of the beautiful spots on the continent through travel folders, etc. After a short time she became anxious to see these places first hand; so off to Germany she went.

It happened to be the year of the Passion Play at Oberammergau. While she and her friend were in the station at Innsbruck waiting for their train they noticed a poster on the wall. It was rather crude in form and hand-printed, but it aroused their attention. It told of another play being enacted in the little town or Erl, 30 miles down the Inn River. This town is completely unknown to fame of any sort. The peasants were doing the play for their own people. Incidentally, this play was being performed 200 years before the Oberammergau play ever started. On the spur of the moment, Maude and her friend decided to see this one. It turned out to be a beautiful production done in pure medieval style. Maude was visibly impressed and wrote a glowing account of what she had seen.

Later she continued on to see the much advertised Play at Oberammergau.

Her story of the peasants' play brought her immediate acclaim. Even Lord Beaverbrook was interested in her account of it, so much so that he phoned and asked her to come to his office. After some discussion, he offered her a place on the staff of the London Express; which she promptly accepted. She stayed on there for two years, writing special news features and interviews. One interview was with the famous Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, among others.

Many amusing things happened during her "tour of duty" there. One day, while at her desk in the newspaper office in London, the editor came to her and asked if she would take over the serial mystery story which was due in two days. (The former writer had been taken suddenly ill).

"You know," exclaimed the distraught editor, "make it a real melodrama — and 'er golden 'air was 'anging down her back and that sort of thing. You can do it!"

There Maude Meagher was—expected to pull a mystery story right out of her hat, as it were. She recalls how she went to work on it. In her own words she said "It was so bad that it became immediately popular." The Hearst papers published it. Then King Features took it over. Finally Allen and Unwin of London published it in book form. The movie rights were sold too.

Maude smiled and said, "With this windfall and a fat check book, I took off for the Isle of Capri for the winter." This is what Maude calls play money. Her job with the newspaper was her bread and butter money.

Before returning to London she came back to California to visit the family and her editor, James Tufts of the Chronicle. Her next assignment in London was reporting on international politics, which required much travelling. She found no fault with this arrangement at all. During this time she went to China, Istanbul and the Middle East, making her daily reports.

"Altogether I wrote steadily for the Chronicle for 14 years. At the same time I published three full books and over 100 mysteries, adventure and cowboy stories.

"Incidentally, my pen name was Buck Marriott for the cowboy stories and I remember one news item saying that I did everything I wrote about the cowboys in my stories. Can you imaginate that? In one story I recall the hero meeting a charging bull and throwing it over his shoulder.

"Later I wrote under the name John Holden; other pen names, too. It was great fun writing the mysteries, I have enjoyed every minute of it."

We were interrupted at this point by Melissa. It was dinner time! Melissa, a friendly fluffy Persian cat purred like a dynamo while Maude checked the larder for her favorite food.

Shortly after this I took my leave. Maude walked to the corridor and showed my the way out. Melissa came, too. Just out of friendliness, I guess.

Italian Theme For Heart Fund Benefit

A meeting was held recently at Pine Inn to make plans for the forthcoming Heart Fund cocktail party and hors d'oeuvres contest, Grand Prix Culinaire—Cucina Italiana, to be held this year at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club on February 5, 5:30-7 p.m.

Alfred G. Fry, general chairman, presided over a group which included representatives of the tri-county Central Mission Trails Heart Association, also members of the sponsoring group, the Monterey Peninsula Hotel Association, and local volunteers.

Dr. Chester T. Johns, president Central Mission Trails Heart Association, came from Santa Cruz to attend. Also present was A. G. Michaud, president Del Monte Properties, who is chapter campaign manager for CMTHA.

The party theme is to be Italian, with appropriate decor by Barbara Tripp, in the manner of "gran premio gastronomico."

Residents of Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties may enter their favorite hors d'oeuvres in the friendly competition, which is one of the features of the event. Entries are made in either amateur or professional classifications. Judges are to be selected, with Mrs. Robert Stanton heading that committee.

The public is invited. Donations are $7.50 per person and tickets may be obtained from any hotel on the Monterey Peninsula. All proceeds are to benefit the Heart Association.

OLD MPC BUILDINGS TO BE DEMOLISHED

Most of Monterey Peninsula College's original buildings — World War II barracks structures transplanted from Camp McQuade in 1948 - will be demolished or removed "as replacement structures become available."

The MPC board of trustees passed a resolution to this effect at its January 11 meeting.

CROSBY COUNTRY

Overlooking 12th Fairway, Dunes Course
And a white-water ocean view

A lovely old Spanish home with lots of wrought iron, hand carving, nooks and crannies, lots of bedrooms and baths, and very suitable for two-family ownership. It's on two complete lots, too. The price of this unusual find is only $85,000.

Like to play a few holes at night?
See this nearly new home about 200 yards from the fairways, with a garage big enough for TWO carts. Wonderful homey feeling and a very large dining room. Low-maintenance yard which leaves time for entertaining and golf. 3 bedrooms, 2½ baths, and a nice low price of $49,500. (This is the house with bunk beds for the dog and cats!)

In Upper Pebble Beach

The perfect property if you'd like to entertain in a 40 ft. lanai room; serve from a 17 ft. dining room and put some of the guests in the 36-ft. living room. And when the party's over, collapse in a 22-ft. bedroom! Priced attractively, too, at $59,500.

Huge living room, small home

Just exactly what this couple wanted for retirement for themselves and some lovely, large-scale furniture. If this is your problem—you don't want a big house, but you do want a big living room, and you are very "particular" about a nice kitchen, bedrooms and baths, see this one for only $44,500.

Or How About

AN ADORABLE COTTAGE, decorator furnished, 2 bedrooms, corner lot, lovely garden behind a 2-rail white fence, completely carpeted, for $34,500 . . .

HONEYMOON HEAVEN in a 2 bedroom adobe with a manicured garden, secluded, just across the street from the 17th fairway of the Dunes Course . . .

ARCHITECT-DESIGNED for its site, on the 3rd fairway of the Dunes Course, a most unusual home with a 2-story living room, 2 balcony bedrooms, another bedroom on the main floor, 3 baths, gourmet-style kitchen, gorgeous carpets and drapes—vacant, and you can move right in! Do ask for the delightful details on these homes!

To Review Controls

the west side of Lincoln Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues. Conditions for the permit were that site development and architectural plans be submitted to the commission's design review committee and a small building at the rear of the property be removed. The commission set February 15 as the date for a public hearing on rezoning part of this land for parking use. City Clerk Hugh Bayless reported that property owners in the "zone of interest" affected by the rezoning had been notified and that 70 per cent approved the reclassification.

Donald and Frances Drummond were given a use permit to subdivide an 8,161 square foot piece of land at the southwest intersection of Vizcaino and Flanders into two single family dwelling sites of 4,037 and 4,124 square feet on condition that an official survey map of the subdivision, prepared by a qualified surveyor, be filed with the city, also that a fire hydrant be installed by the owners before any construction on either lot.

John C. and Dora Lee Brauer were denied a variance which would have increased building coverage by converting a garage into a studio on one lot on the west side of Carmelo between Tenth and Eleventh.

A public hearing was set for next Wednesday afternoon on the request of Mrs. Rolf J. Ullestad for a three foot, ten inch reduction of the 15 foot front setback requirement for her property on the east side of Mission between Thirteenth and Santa Lucia. Mrs. Ullestadt stated that she wished a variance in order to construct a dining room as she has a dinette so small that no more than four persons can be seated at a card table.

Consideration of a five-lot annexation request from residents of the Mission Tract will be considered next week. At this time a report will be prepared for the city council. The annexation involves two lots on the west side of Monte Verde and three on the east, all fronting on the south side of Santa Lucia, also that portion of Monte Verde along which two lots extend. Petitioners are W. Harold Oliver, Olof and Jean Dahlstrand and Dorothy S. Wright. They own three of the five lots.

Chairman von Meier stated she had written a letter to August Johnson, president of the Carmel Business Association, requesting merchants cooperate with the city in keeping litter from Carmel's sidewalks and streets. She pointed out that the city's street sweeper cleans the streets before merchants sweep sidewalks in front of their premises. This matter was brought to the commission's attention by Commissioner Dorothea Roberts.

Captain Warner

Captain Spencer Hubert Warner (USN Ret.), 71, a resident of Carmel for the past 20 years, died Tuesday afternoon at his home on Monte Verde near Seventh Avenue. Although he apparently died in his sleep, an autopsy will be performed to determine the cause of death.

Captain Warner's studies at the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, were interrupted for duty during World War I. He later returned, was graduated from the academy, and served continuously until his retirement in 1946. Due for earlier retirement, he remained active during World War II and was attached to the Air Corps in Washington, D.C.

He leaves his wife, Ruth, who is in a local convalescent hospital; two sons, Paul Hubert Warner of Daly City and William L. Warner of Tustin; and two grandchildren.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Paul Mortuary, Pacific Grove, with Chaplain George L. Markle (USN Ret.) of Carmel officiating. Burial with full military rites will take place at 10:45 a.m. at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Friends wishing to make contributions in memory of Captain Warner may do so to Carmel American Legion Post 512.

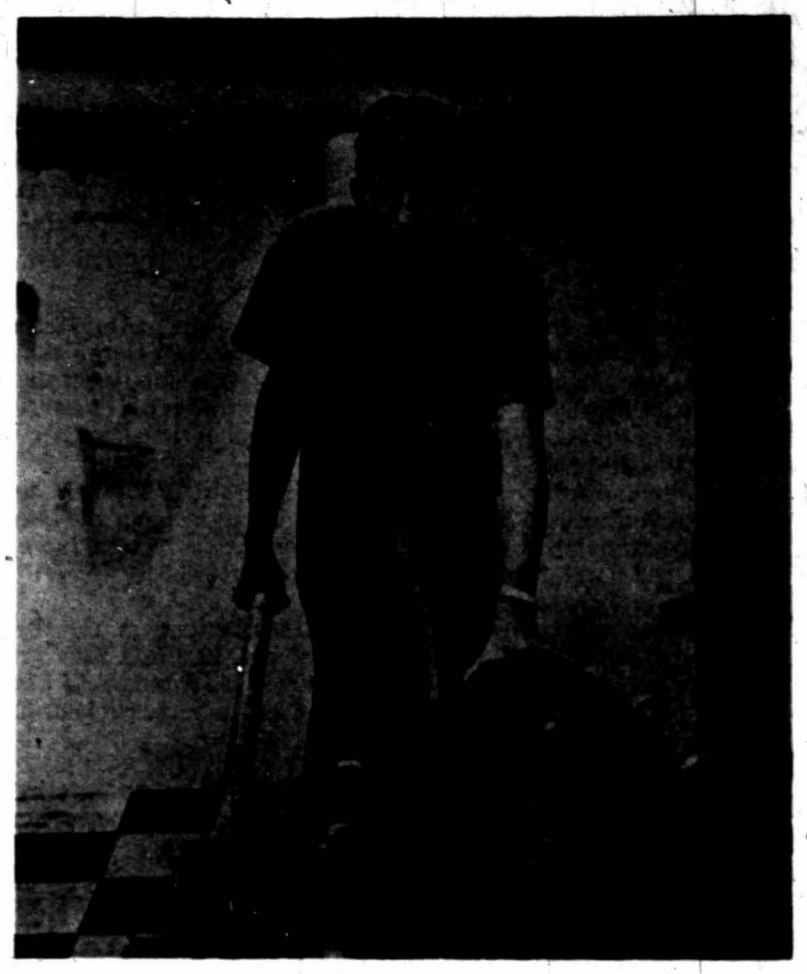
Roma Donovan

Private services have been held at Mission Mortuary for Mrs. Roma Hodgdon Donovan, a well known resident of Carmel for the past 38 years. Mrs. Donovan died in a local hospital Tuesday after an extended illness.

A native of Berlin, New Hampshire, she was born April 17, 1894.

Mrs. Donovan, who was in the real estate business here for many years, last resided at Hazeltine Court at Lincoln and Fifth.

Surviving are two brothers, Paul E. Hodgdon of Charlemont, Massachusetts, and Theodore Hodgdon of Nutley, New Jersey.



ON USS CORAL SEA

Pushing a bomb cart, above, is Airman Apprentice John H. Buhler, USN, who is serving aboard the USS Coral Sea. The ship's pilots, planes and men have been conducting air strikes against North Viet Nam from the carrier's position in the Gulf of Tonkin.

John, who attended Carmel High School, received his basic training last year at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center, later was based on the Peninsula as a reserve. He is the son of Mrs. Ellen Buhler of Carmel.

RED CROSS YOUTH GROUP TO SERVE BING'S GUESTS

Arrangements have been made to excuse several members of the Red Cross Youth group from morning sessions at Carmel High School during the Crosby Tournament, in order that the girls may serve as coffee-and-doughnut hostesses at Indian Village to Bing Crosby's special guests, several hundred servicemen.

The girls who have volunteered for this traditional Red Cross service are Jean Hudelson, Jerri Stoneson, Mary Jo Woolsey, Nancy Shively and Linda Zanides.

The visitors will come from various military installations throughout the northern part of California and are men who have served in the Viet Nam war including a number who have been wounded or ill.

UCB Board Earnings

United California Bank's net operating earnings reached a record high of $21,602,023 in 1966, according to Frank S. Baer, chairman of the bank's board of directors. The sum represented a seven percent increase over $20,178,759 earned in 1965.

Earnings per share were $3.62 based on the 5,961,832 average shares outstanding last year and compared to $3.52 on the $5,730,491 average shares outstanding in 1965. Fourth quarter earnings in 1966 increased 12 percent to $5,651,268 or 94 cents a share. The previous year earnings in the same quarter amounted to $5,042,584 or 87 cents a share.

NORBERG TALK ON CARMEL

"The Story of Carmel and Its Meaning" was the subject of the talk given last Tuesday noon by Gunnar Norberg at the regular monthly meeting of the Cosmos Club, local men's organization. Presiding at the meeting, which was held in the Sans Souci Restaurant, was the club's chairman, Richard Brinton. Brinton's guest at the luncheon session was Herbert Heron, founder of Carmel's famed Carmel Forest Theater, and a former mayor of Carmel. Program chairman for the luncheon meeting was Allman Cook, who introduced Norberg.

Cancer Society Free Luncheon Is Planned

Mrs. Fred Stanley of Carmel, local unit chairman for the American Cancer Society, is busy preparing for a free luncheon the purpose of which will be to better inform the public of the society's activities and services.

The independent grocery stores of Carmel will provide the food and All Saints' Church is providing its Parish Hall as the place. The time will be from noon to 1:30 p.m. on January 30. Reservations are requested and these may be made by telephoning 624-2559.

A very costly Hollywood production film will be shown. Guests will include Dr. Donald Scanlon, Dr. Stephen Thorngate(president of the Monterey County Cancer Society, and Executive Secretary Mrs. Angela Johnson.

Fred Farr Fiesta Tickets Available At Carmel Realty

Herbert Blanks, who is in charge of selling tickets for the Fred Farr Fiesta on February 1, announces that they are available also at the Carmel Realty office on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues. He has made this arrangement so that friends of Farr may obtain fiesta tickets when going to the post office. The cost ($7.50) includes the price of dinner and a donation for a gift. Purpose of the fiesta is to honor Fred Farr, a Carmel resident, for his 12 years of service as a California senator which ended on January 1. Blanks may be reached for tickets at 624-8212. The fiesta will be held in the exhibition hall at the Monterey County Fairgrounds starting with a no-host cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m. followed by dinner at 7:30 o'clock.
